SAUNDERS HELD AS DEATH CAR DRIVER

Atteaux Admits Meeting Breen

TELLS OF DYNAMITE REMOVAL

Breen, He Testified, Said His Mother Was Worried by Easy Access to Explosives.

DENIES PAYMENT OF $500

Frederick E. Atteaux, president of the Atteaux Mills Supplies Company, today took the stand in his own defence at the trial of William M. Wood, Mr. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins on a charge of conspiracy to plant dynamite in Lawrence.

Atteaux told his story of the meetings between Breen and himself. He denied the conversation to which Breen testified, as a result of which Breen said he planted the dynamite. He denied that he had paid Breen $500 on that occasion, or $200 later. He accused Breen of appealing to him for money, and said:

"Breen came and asked me to raise $15,000 for him. I said I couldn't, and he asked me to get Mr. Wood to raise it. The next day, he called up and said if something wasn't done along this line right away, 'There will be an explosion, and I won't be hurt, either, for I've already got mine.'"

On another occasion Atteaux said, Breen said to him:

"How do you think Mr. Wood would like the labor people to hear about this?"

Atteaux said he lives in Chestnut Hill, is sixty, has been thirty years in the mill supply business and has known Wood for twenty-eight years.

He told how in 1902 he went to mills in Maine during a strike there, and acting for the Woolen Company made addresses and attended meetings leading to a settlement of the strike, for which he was paid $1,000.

Owing to a slight lameness Mr. Atteaux was permitted to sit. After testifying that he got $1,000 for services

ABOYEUR IS DERBY WINNER

Rank Outsider Takes English Classic After Favorite Is Disqualified.

MILITANT IS BADLY HURT

EPSOM, Eng., June 4.—By the disqualification today of Craganour after he had finished ahead of a field of sixteen in the classic Derby this blue ribbon event of the British turf went to a 100 to 1 shot by the name of Aboyeur. This horse, which was regarded as a rank outsider, is owned by A. P. Cunliffe. Louvois, owned by W. Raphael, got second place and Great Sport was given third position.

Craganour was a hot favorite at 6 to 4 and a fortune had been wagered on him. The odds on Louvois were 10 to 1. Protest was lodged against Craganour for bumping. The stewards investigated and found Johnny Reiff, the American jockey who rode Craganour, guilty of blocking the field. Craganour is owned by C. Bowers Ismay.

Militant Suffragette Injured.

The race was perhaps the most exciting ever run over the historic downs. A militant suffragette attempted to break up the event and nearly succeeded with a nearly fatal result. Just as the horses were rounding Tattenham corner a woman dashed from the side lines and seized the bridle of Anmer, a horse owned by King George.

Anmer crashed heavily to the ground, hurling the jockey over his head. The woman was thrown beneath the hoofs of the plunging animal and was trampled. She was thought to be dead, but was revived by restoratives and taken to the hospital. It is believed she is fatally hurt.

Late in the afternoon the woman was identified as Emily Wilding Davison, B. A., of London University, who has a police record in connection with suffrage violence. It was she who assaulted and seriously injured an aged clergyman last year when she mistook him for David Lloyd George, chancellor of the British exchequer.

The woman had crowded to a point as near the horses as she could possibly get. Several of the runners had flashed by when she darted from the crowd.

Anmer swerved as she jumped at the reins, but she managed to secure a firm grasp upon them. As the horse fell a mighty shout went up from the grand stand and paddock. When the horse staggered to its feet women near the scene fainted at the sight of the two still forms.

Another serious accident occurred in the race following the Derby. Flitanio slipped and fell, throwing Jockey Walley to the ground with a great impact. The jockey was knocked senseless and injured internally. The horse had to be shot.

The Stewards' Handicap, $5,000, was won by St. Mercadeo. Incensant George was second and Angor, third.

WINSLOW IN CLASH AT COURT

Shoe Machinery Co. Head Nearly Comes to Blows with Jackson of St. Louis.

LATTER HAD TESTIFIED

Sidney W. Winslow, the millionaire president of the United Shoe Machinery Company, and Jackson Johnson, president of the International Shoe Machinery Company of St. Louis, clashed today in the corridor outside the United States District Court in the Federal building, shortly after President Johnson had concluded his testimony in the government's suit to dissolve the Winslow corporation. It was declared by spectators that only the interference of a United States deputy prevented the clash from becoming more than a "wordy argument."

President Johnson was a witness for the government today. On the stand he told of a trip to Boston in an effort to secure certain concessions from the United Shoe Company. He met President Winslow, he said.

"Mr. Winslow was such a cold proposition that I knew my case was hopeless," the St. Louis man testified. "He turned me down on every proposition."

When President Johnson went into the corridor, at recess, he was met by President Winslow. Warm words followed. It was then that Deputy Cameron of the United States marshal's office interfered with the aid of bystanders.

Veto for Teachers Tenure Service Bill

Governor Foss Says Measure Would Demoralize School System.

Governor Foss today vetoed a bill to provide a tenure of service for public school teachers. The bill was advocated by the teachers as a protection against removal for political reasons.

The Governor, in his message accompanying the veto, says the bill would accomplish a distinct demoralization of the school system. Under the bill, he says, the teachers who are subordinates of the school committees, would be rendered very largely independent.

The bill provides that five years of consecutive employment of a school teacher by a city or town shall establish that teacher's right to continued employment during good behavior and efficiency, and prohibits removal until charges have been preferred and a hearing given.

Quinn and French Given LL. B. Degrees

All things come to him who waits, so today Asa Palmer French, the United States District Attorney, and Judge Joseph P. Quinn won the degrees for which they studied hard and burned the midnight oil over their law books nearly thirty years ago at Boston University.

The noted lawyer and judge graduated today with the young men and women who finished the law course the past year and received their sheepskins at the Boston University commencement exercises in Tremont Temple.

Another "old young" graduate was Thomas G. Proctor. Attorney French finished in the class of '85. Judge Quinn completed his course with the class of '83, and Attorney Proctor was a classmate of the Judge. Today all received the degree of LL. B.

Troops Called in Parliament Riot

Hungarian Deputies Start Disorder After Cabinet Resignations.

BUDAPEST, Hungry, June 4.—A riot broke out today in the lower chamber of Hungarian parliament when the premier announced the resignation of the Cabinet. Members began fighting among themselves and the police had to be called in to eject the unruly members.

So turbulent became the scenes in and around Parliament Building, that troops had to be called to the scene. Cavalry was drawn up in all the streets leading to the building and machine guns were planted about the building.

The commander of the troops issued the order that none of the deputies should try to enter. Deputy Hedervary disregarded the order and attempted to get into the building, when the commandant galloped up, drew his saber and slashed Hedervary over the head knocking him to the street unconscious.

Plan Bill to Free Philippine Islands

Wilson Behind Move for Speedy Action in Matter.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Chairman Jones of the House Insular Affairs Committee announced today he would call his committee together next week to frame a bill to grant independence to the Philippine Islands.

President Wilson, it was learned, is still of the opinion that early action on this is necessary, and the committee will have a bill ready to report to the House on the first day of next session.

Jones declared today it was possible that the bill might pass the House before the end of the present session, the Democratic caucus rule which restricts general legislation of the session to currency and the tariff being subject to amendment at a separate caucus.

It was declared, however, that the Republicans of the House would fight the Philippine measure.

Loses Court Appeal on Fore River Sale

Justice Hardy in Superior Court today denied the petition of John J. Myers of New York, a stockholder in the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, for an injunction against the sale of the plant. Judge Hardy said the bill was defective.

Myers alleged that the directors took action to sell the plant for $500,000 when it was worth $5,000,000. The Bethlehem Steel Company, of which Charles Schwab is the moving force, is the new purchaser.

Stocks Off On London Selling

Prices Down from One to Three Points on Heavy Trading.

Stocks slumped again today because of foreign selling of American securities. London and Paris rushed selling orders to New York before the American market opened and continued to unload later.

During the first hour in the big American market share transactions totalled more than 313,000 and business for the morning amounted to 650,000. It was the most active market known in months and the great volume of business was done on a decline.

The market opened weak and stocks were thrown over by commission houses all through the first hour. It was said that the liquidation of speculative accounts was more extensive than at any time previously this year. A number of the most important houses were heavy sellers.

By midday leading stocks generally showed substantial losses including the following, 12:30 quotations and declines being given:

A train inbound from Hamilton came near dropping into an open draw near the North Station today, coming in on the Eastern Division. The train ran through the gate of the draw, smashing it to splinters, but stopped near the edge.

ACCUSED IN SOBELL TRAGEDY

Victim's Parents in Court as Dorchester Suspect Is Arraigned.

ACCUSED TELLS HIS STORY

Edward Saunders, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Louis Sobell, the seven-year-old boy killed by an automobile a week ago, today was held in $5,000 for the July sitting of the Superior Court, after a hearing before Judge Sullivan in the Dorchester Court.

Judge Sullivan ruled that "probable cause" had been shown for holding Saunders.

The automobile that killed the Sobell boy sped away without stopping to ascertain how seriously the child had been injured. The police investigated, and Saunders' arrest followed.

Saunders lives in Roslindale and is a motor car salesman. At his hearing today, Claude L. Allen, a member of the State Senate, acted as his counsel.

Saunders himself took the stand and testified that at the time the police say he was near the scene of the accident he had just returned from demonstrating a car to some prospective customers. Mrs. Saunders was also a witness.

Victim's Parents in Court.

Among the spectators were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sobell, parents of little Louis Sobell, the victim, and the lad's cousin, J. Cornblatt. The parents were represented by an attorney from Brandeis, Dunbar & Nutter of which Louis D. Brandeis is a member. Through his counsel, Saunders has declared that the "police have the wrong man." He first appeared in court, Saturday, when his counsel demanded a bill of particulars. This was furnished by the prosecution.

The features were the fixing of the time of the accident at about 6:05 p. m., May 27, and the place as on Talbot avenue, near Wales street and Browning avenue.

Medical Examiner Timothy J. Leary described the case in detail and explained that the cause of the boy's death was due to a fracture of the skull.

John Simpson, a plumber, with a place of business at No. 958 Blue Hill avenue, who lives in Squantum, told of how he was riding a motorcycle on the evening of the accident. Simpson said: "I was on my way home and was going along Talbot avenue, when a gray car passed me at a rapid rate of speed, so much so that I was nearly knocked off my machine. I could not describe the chauffeur, except to say that he wore a gray cap."

The Guilty Man's Size

Senator Allen, counsel for Saunders, asked Simpson if he could pick out anybody in the courtroom that looked like the chauffeur.

Simpson looked around the room and remarked that the chauffeur was

ALL BUT 30 OF 1,400 A.F. OF L. BARBERS BACK

Boston Barbers' Union, A. F. of L., reported today that all but eight shops out of the 400 where A. F. of L. members are employed have signed the union agreement, and that all except thirty-odd of the 1,400 men in their union are back at work.

The I. W. W. barbers, who called a large number of men out on strike yesterday, held a special meeting and said that over 100 bosses had made application to settle at union terms. A special session of the settlement committee was called at No. 104 Hanover street to meet the bosses who wished to get their men back by signing the union agreement.

Joseph J. Ettor, former Lawrence and Hoboken strike leader, and Arturo Giovannitti have been requested to come to Boston and take charge of the strike of the I. W. W. barbers.

Pending their arrival, the strike will be in charge of Flavia Aldigondi of Milford, who has been a leader in the strike of the Draper Company employes at Hopedale.

Explains Incident of Foss' Photograph

"W. F. P." Tells About Jack Barnes and the Governor.

A letter signed "W. F. P." of Roslindale, printed today, gives what it calls a true version of the reward given by Governor Foss to "Jack" Barnes, who has been in the Governor's employ in one of his Hyde Park plants for the past forty years. The letter says the strikers at the Foss plants are declaring that Barnes went to see the Governor and that "all the Governor did for him was to give him his photograph and a pass to go into the shops any time he wanted to."

The truth about this is when Mr. Barnes went up into the office to see the general manager, Mr. Freeman, he sent him in to see the Governor and told Barnes that anything the Governor said he would approve of it. The Governor did give him his photo and pass. He also instructed Mr. Freeman to send Mr. Barnes a check every week for half salary, which Mr. Freeman approved of and Barnes has been receiving his checks since that time.

$50,000 Jewel Theft Baffles Detectives

NEW YORK, June 4.—The mysterious $50,000 gem theft in Malden lane yesterday is baffling the entire detective talent of Greater New York.

Isaac R. Theise, a diamond importer in the Myers Building at No. 49 Maiden lane, entered his office on the eleventh floor of the building, put a leather bag containing the jewels into a roll top desk which he rolled and locked, and then stepped into a wash room just off his office after also locking the office door behind him. He was absent just three minutes.

Upon his return, the office door was still locked, but on entering by means of a key, he found the desk open, and the bag of jewels gone.

The office door had not been forced; the desk lock had not been tampered with.

ATTEAUX ON STAND IN DYNAMITE TRIAL TELLS OWN STORY

in smoothing over the strike in 1902, he said.

"On January 15 I went to the office of Mr. Wood about 9 o'clock in the morning as a result of a telephone call. I told Mr. Wood that I would be glad to do anything I could in connection with the Lawrence strike. There was a conference in progress. I don't remember just now who was present, but there were several mill owners and directors of the American Woolen Company.

Conferred With Mayor.

"During the discussion of the strike conditions it was decided that someone should go to Lawrence and have a talk with the Mayor.

"Mr. Wood said he would go, as nobody else volunteered. I spoke up and said that it wouldn't be right for him to go if he had a cold, and that I would go myself.

"I looked at my watch and found that I had just time to catch the 10:50 train. Arriving at Lawrence I went direct to the City Hall. I found the Mayor at the police station.

"He asked me how the manufacturers liked what he had done so far to curb the strikers. He said the situation was serious, and that if there was a retired army officer in Boston who wasn't doing anything it might be a good thing to send him to Lawrence to give advice.

"I then went to the Wood mill, and ascertained how many looms were in operation. Then I returned to Boston and went to the American Woolen Company's office, where I made my report.

"While there a man came in and wanted to see Mr. Wood. I saw his card, bearing the name 'S. A. Corbey.' I asked him what I could do for him. He said he wanted to know if he could be of any service to the American Woolen Company in the strike. He said he had received $100 for work on another occasion.

"I told him I had no authority to engage him. He said he did not want any pay, only his expenses.

"I told him to report conditions.

"The next day, January 16, he telephoned me at my home. He said: 'There is a gentleman here in my office now—Alderman Breen, who would like to speak to you. He has just addressed a meeting in the basement of the Syrian Church. He advised the people to refrain from violence and to go back to their work. He is doing good work. I think you had better talk with him.' I said 'All right,' and then a man who said he was Breen came to the 'phone. He said:

"'You don't know me, but my father, ex-Mayor Breen, knew you. I am going to do all I can.'

"I said: 'Thank you, Mr. Breen. We must try to avoid riots and trouble.'"

Urged Removal of Dynamite.

Q.—Up to January 16,1912, had you ever talked to John J. Breen before in your life. A.—No.

Q.—When was the next time you saw him? A.—Late the next afternoon on January 17. I was just about to go to Lowell's Station for my train, and in passing out noticed a man talking with one of my clerks, who said, as I passed, 'There's Mr. Atteaux now.' I turned and the man came up to me. He said: 'Is this Mr. Atteaux?' I said, 'Yes.' He said, "I'm Mr. Breen. There is a lot of dynamite stored in the city yards at Lawrence. While it is protected from fire, it would be an easy matter to get the dynamite. There is enough dynamite there to blow up every mill in Lawrence. Why don't you have the American Woolen Company ask the Mayor to have the dynamite placed in safe-keeping.

"I said: 'Why don't you ask him yourself?' He said: 'I already have. This is worrying my poor, old mother. She can't sleep nights. I wish you would do this for me and telephone me, so that I can tell the old lady in order that she may rest easy.'

Says Breen Was Grateful.

"Next day, on January 18, I did as he suggested.

"I telephoned and got Breen's place and I said to the man who answered: 'This is Mr. Atteaux talking. Tell Mr. Breen that the matter he was talking about has been attended to. He'll understand what is meant.'

"The next forenoon—January 19—Mr. Breen came into my office. He said: 'I want to thank you for what you did. The old lady had a good night's rest last night and I felt better myself. Has Ernest Pitman come in this morning?' I said: 'No.' Breen said: 'Do you expect him?' I said: 'No.' Breen asked if I could find him. He said that he was told that the Taxi-Service Company and the American Woolen Company's office were the two best places to find Pitman in Boston.

"I telephoned to the American Woolen Company's office and asked if Mr. Pitman was there. A clerk said, 'Mr. Pitman is right here now.' I talked with Mr. Pitman and he came to my office.

"He said to Breen, 'Hello, John,' and shook me. I told them that I had to go to my laboratory to see some new samples and if they would excuse me they might use the office. I was absent twenty minutes. When I returned Mr. Pitman had on his overcoat and Mr. Breen had his coat over his arm. Both thanked me for the use of the office and went out together.

Q.—Did Breen on January 18 mention to you anything about dynamite, except in his reference to having certain dynamite transferred in Lawrence? A.—No.

Q.—When did you next see Mr. Breen? A.—It was in March. I cannot fix the day. I was walking up Washington street toward the South End when I met Breen. It was between Franklin and Summer streets, on the right-hand side of Washington street. Breen said: 'I'm Breen. Do you remember me?' I told him I did. He said: 'I suppose you saw I was arrested in that dynamite affair in Lawrence?' I said: 'Yes.' He said: 'There is nothing in it. I'm all right.'

"I said: 'Did you have anything to do with it?' told me the story he had told the officers, before the dynamite was found.

Says Breen Sought Help.

Q.—When did you next see Breen. A.—On July 12 or 13. He came to my office on Purchase street. He said: 'Mr. Atteaux, I want to have a chat with you for a few minutes. I am in great trouble. I suppose you have seen how I was convicted in the Lawrence dynamite affair?' I said: 'Yes.' He said: 'I am broke and in great distress. I had to mortgage my farm in New Hampshire. I spent $2,500, and on top of that two suits have been filed against me, and six others are pending because of the arrest of the people on the premises where the dynamite was found. I don't know what to do. I feel that what I did de was for the good of all.'

"I asked him why he had come to tell me this story. He said: 'I thought, perhaps, you might ask the mill people to help me. Everything I did was to help them. I had no interest myself. And what I did helped them, too. There has been no talk of dynamite or blowing up anything in Lawrence since the dynamite was found.'

EIGHT MORE SENATORS DENY LOBBY CHARGE

WASHINGTON, June 4.—No evidence of improper lobbying was gathered by the Overman Committee today through the examination of eight Senators who had not appeared before, although Senator Overman declared that he knew of large sums of money being spent to defeat his public health bill. He stated that one advertisement, presumed to have been paid for by patent medicine interests, cost $50,000.

Senator Stevenson of Wisconsin entertained the committee with a recital of his huge property holdings and his political views, which include the doctrine of free raw materials.

Senator O'Gorman made a record for brevity, completing his answers to the questions in two minutes.

New Jersey Defines Lobbyists.

Senator Martine added a new definition of lobbyist to the testimony, declaring that in his State the lobbyist is not given so dignified a name, but is called a "trooper of the black horse cavalry," and is "an unprincipled vagabond who will sell his sanity and smoothness to the highest bidder to debauch his fellow men."

Chairman Overman made public a list of fifteen men on whom subpoenas have been served. They will appear Saturday and are Amos Gove of Denver, D. S. W. McClure of Salt Lake, H. T. Oxnard of New York, W. F. Dickinson and Jules Gottschalk of New Orleans, Sidney Bellou, E. E. Ruston, H. D. Mead, W. D. Smith, Frank Buford, a man named Lynch, and John Carroll of Washington; H. T. Alexander of Trenton, J. F. Hamburg of New York and Harry Irwin.

That Handsome Man.

D. S. W. McClure, who represents wool interests in Washington was identified in person today as a lobbyist by Senator Lane of Oregon, the first witness today. He said that few men had called on him regarding the tariff except "a very handsome man sitting back there."

Senator Lane could not recall his name and turning to McClure said: "What is your name?"

McClure laughed and gave his name. Senator Lane observed that each of the interests seeking protection is out for itself. "It's a case of the devil take the blindmost," he said. Senator McCumber said that he was interested in farming 1,500 acres of North Dakota land which will be almost disastrously affected by the pending bill.

Swears to 16 Years of Dairy Lunches

"Then You're Indigestion Victim," Says Company's Witness.

Sixteen years of restaurant food is enough to make any man subject to sudden and serious attacks of indigestion, according to Professor Marcellus Smithwick, a witness in the case of William H. Crocker against the Baltimore Dairy Lunch.

Crocker asks $2,000 damages on the ground that a meal of chicken pie, ham sandwich and coffee, which he ate at the Baltimore Dairy Lunch at No. 322 Tremont street, gave him ptomaine poisoning. He has won verdicts of $175 and of $225 in two successive trials of the case, but the lunch company has appealed in each case. Crocker said he had patronized dairy lunches since 1897.

Professor Smithwick was a witness for the company. He said:

"Crocker could not have had ptomaine poisoning. Cooks' foods rarely cause ills form of illness, as the cooking destroys the germs. Also, Crocker was taken sick three-quarters of an hour after he ate his lunch. Ptomaine poisoning does not make itself felt for four hours.

"As a matter of fact, I think Crocker's sickness was an attack of acute indigestion."

Busch Makes Bridal Gift of $1,000,000

CHICAGO, June 4.—A check for $1,000,000 for a wedding present. That is what Adolph Busch, brewer of St. Louis, gave to Miss Lillian Magnus, his favorite granddaughter, who today becomes the bride of Sydney L. Berg of Chicago.

The amount of the check was to be kept a secret until tonight, when it was planned for the bride to open the envelope which contained the fortune. But Miss Magnus couldn't wait. She wanted to take just one peep at the figures. When she saw there were seven of them she rushed out to tell the bridegroom.

Nurse Is Bride Tonight.

Miss Alice M. Moore of Somerville will be married tonight to John F. Hurley of Roxbury at St. Clement's rectory, Somerville. The bride has been associated with the Somerville Hospital for the past three years.

NATION-WIDE LABOR WAR ON FOSS HINTED

A nation-wide labor fight will be waged against Governor Foss, according to intimations by President James F. Moriarty of the Boston Central Labor Union, following Governor Foss' refusal to arbitrate or to grant the demands of the employes of the B. F. Sturtevant Company and the Becker Milling Machine Company at Hyde Park. He says:

Labor men will refuse to work in any building where any of his blowers is to be installed, not only in Boston, but anywhere in America.

Not only will we close the Sturtevant and Becker works, but we will drive him out of the State and prevent him getting any more honors in this country.

It may take time, but this tyrant will be dragged from the pedestal of his own making and forced to his knees by you workmen.

This afternoon the strikers will seek their pay at the Sturtevant works and following a meeting in Magnolia Hall they will fall in line and walk to the works.

President Moriarty has promised the strikers of the moral and financial support of his organization, which numbers 80,000 men and women. That support will last as long as they stand out against their employer, he says.

H. L. Stanley, president of the committee of employes, told the men:

I want to say that every one of you would do well to log it in the streets of Boston or die of starvation before you go back into these plants.

According to Chairman Stanley, Governor Foss declares he wants nothing to do with the Board of Arbitration, but will take up the case individually of every man who returns to work.

When Governor Foss met the Workmen Committee at the State House Tuesday afternoon, they expected some sort of compromise, but the Governor declared he would not yield any point whatsoever. The Governor met the men smilingly but firmly. All hopes of immediate peace were shattered, and the men say the strike must go on indefinitely.

DEMOCRATS FLOP AFTER LOBBY'S DESPERATE WORK AND KILL HEALTH REFORM

The bill to reorganize the State Board of Health, which was passed to be engrossed by the House yesterday, was killed on a reconsideration vote in the House today, enough Democratic Representatives flopping to destroy this great public benefit measure.

A motion to reconsider prevailed on a rising vote of 82 to 69. On a roll-call the motion to reconsider prevailed, 104 to 101. Then the bill was killed on a roll-call vote, 109 to 103.

The State Board of Health was bitterly scored by the friends of the bill for lobbying.

Representative McManus of Boston (Democrat) declared that the "most gigantic lobby" in his legislative experience had been at work all night.

Representative George Webster of Boxford (Progressive) asserted that three out of thirty-five messages he received were from State Board of Health employes.

Representative Edward E. McGrath of Boston (Democrat) denounced the "disgraceful influences exerted."

Debate Was Choked Off.

Others who sought to speak against reconsideration were choked off by Speaker Cushing, who shut down on further debate.

When the bill was passed to be engrossed by the House yesterday by the close vote of 109 to 105, it was expected that the opponents of the bill would put up a bitter fight to kill it today.

Representative E. H. Bigelow, M. D., of Framingham (Rep.), who led the fight against the bill yesterday, announced, when it was passed, that he would move for reconsideration today.

The supporters of this health reform measure were girded for a fierce attack today, but they hardly anticipated the extent to which the opponents of the bill would go.

There was free comment as the House was assembling that the State Board of Health had made one of the most powerful lobbies of the session working indefatigably against the bill to get it killed on reconsideration.

Today several of the Representatives received long-distance telephone messages from influential interests in their respective districts hostile to the measure.

Flopped to the Other Side.

The net result of all this lobbying was that several Democrats who had already gone on record twice in favor of the bill switched, or "flopped," as they say, to the other side and brought about the defeat of the bill.

After the bill was defeated on reconsideration its friends took steps to bring about an investigation of the methods whereby this surprising result was achieved.

The bill came before the House at 11:20 on the motion of Representative Bigelow for reconsideration.

Representative Bradstreet of Beverly (Rep.), who was in charge of the bill for the Committee on Public Health, opposed reconsideration. He said that the matter had been thoroughly threshed out and it was only wasting the time of the House to reconsider it today.

Representative McManus of Boston (Dem.) charged that a gigantic lobby, "the most gigantic in my experience in the House," had been lobbying all night to bring about this reconsideration.

"It comes up here," said McManus, "and asks the House to disgrace itself. I hope the motion will not prevail."

Representative George Webster of Boxford (Prog.), for the bill, said he was astounded at the influences which were at work to defeat the measure.

Board's Employes Active.

"I wish to talk on a personal matter," he added. "I have received from thirty to thirty-five messages in regard to my stand on the bill. Thirty-two of these were complimentary. The others came from men whom I know to be employes of the State Board of Health. I think that is pretty fair proof of the pernicious lobby which is trying to kill this bill."

Representative Edward E. McGrath of Ward 18, Boston (Dem.), who is one of the ablest speakers on the floor, said:

"It is about time, when any board appointed by the State dares the effrontery to come here and dictate to the Representatives the way they shall vote, that that board should be reorganized. The spectacle of the people's court being subjected to the disgraceful influences exerted by a pernicious lobby is shameful. This House is already on record twice in favor of the bill. Those men who vote today against the bill are voting against the interests of the people."

Cited Canton Epidemic.

Representative Brennan of Charlestown (Dem.) scored the State Board of Health for laxity in handling the Canton epidemic in which eighteen people died of tonsilitis.

Representative Lewis Sullivan of Boston (Dem.) and his brother, Benjamin Sullivan, of Boston (Dem.), attempted to speak for the bill but were shut off from debate by Speaker Cushing.

Representative Bothfeld of Newton (Rep.), favored reconsideration and spoke against the bill.

The Bigelow motion for reconsideration prevailed on a rising vote, 82 to 69. Then a roll call was demanded. On the roll call reconsideration again prevailed, 101 to 101.

Without further debate the House then proceeded to a roll call on the recurring question of passing the bill to be engrossed. The question was lost, 108 to 105.

ADELAIDE, ONCE BOSTON WIFE, AGAIN A BRIDE

La Petite Adelaide, toe dancer, who has often delighted Boston audiences and who married William A. Lloyd, a Boston broker, in 1909, and was divorced by him here a year ago, is a bride again.

Dispatches today from New York announced her marriage at her home in Bensonhurst, N. Y., to J. J. Hughes, her dancing partner. The bridal pair are now en route for Denver on a $8,000-a-week honeymoon as members of "The Passing Show of 1912."

Mr. Hughes was a Brooklyn hoof clerk until he found he could dance well enough to please theatrical managers. Three years ago he became La Petite Adelaide's dancing partner.

La Petite Adelaide's maiden name was Mary Adelaide Hickey. She started dancing in vaudeville, then went into musical comedy.

In May, 1909, La Petite Adelaide was with "The Lady Slaves" company at the Columbia Theatre. One afternoon she slipped away to Pawtucket with William A. Lloyd and was married.

There was quite a celebration at that evening's performance at the Columbia.

Don Daly, Marie Dressler and others threw old shoes at the dancer in full view of the audience, the orchestra played a wedding march and bouquets were presented.

The couple lived together about a year. On December 13, 1910, while playing here in "Katy Did," the dancer filed a divorce suit, alleging desertion. A week later Mr. Lloyd filed a cross bill on the same grounds.

In March, 1912, Judge Quinn dismissed the suit brought by La Petite Adelaide and granted a divorce to Mr. Lloyd.

L—A PETITE ADELAIDE, toe dancer, and her new husband, J. J. Hughes, her dancing partner in one of their dances. La Petite Adelaide was divorced from William A. Lloyd, a Boston banker, a year ago.

Street Car Sign Bad English, Yale Says

The sign on the Boston electric cars, "Avoid danger. Wait until the car stops." is poor English, according to Professor Baldwin of Yale. He wonders why Harvard has not objected. He says it should read: "To avoid danger, wait until the car stops."

Wellesley Ban on Poor Men? The Idea!

Pledge to Marry Only $5,000 Husbands Is Just an Imagination.

"The Club That Never Was," according to the college authorities, should be the real name of the club Wellesley girls are said to have formed, in which each member pledged herself to remain single for three years after graduation, and to marry no one with less than $5,000 a year.

The report of the organization of the club drew protests from mothers and fathers every across the continent. Irene Ogden Foye led her daughters in declaring that $5,000 was very little, indeed, to marry on, they had formed no club to enforce the rule.

Wellesley theorists mixed publicity when Maria Leiter, but the college authorities stood back of the statement that the "$5,000 a year club" is a figment of someone's imagination.

Seek $100,000 for Woman's Short Leg

Mrs. Andrus Sues Dr. Smith of Brookline After Arlington Fall.

Taking of testimony in the $100,000 suit for damages of Mrs. Ada M. Andrus of New York against Dr. W. S. Smith of Brookline was resumed today before Judge Wait in Superior Court.

Mrs. Andrus claims that one of her legs is shorter than the other as the result of alleged defective resetting of a fracture sustained while visiting her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Patch, of Westchester avenue, Arlington, in 1910.

She was treated by Dr. Smith at a Cambridge hospital and later fell and broke the leg again. The second time she charges, the setting was improperly done. She was for $50,000, and her husband seeks a similar sum.

Woman's Shoe Clew in Auto Wreck Case

A woman's shoe is held as a clew to the identity of other occupants of the automobile containing George W. Tapley of No. 1080 Boylston street and James E. Lewis of No. 731 Boylston street, which was wrecked on the Newburyport turnpike. Tapley and Lewis are in the Malden Hospital and the police and High way Commissioner are searching for the chauffeur and two other members of the party, who may also have been injured.

Aged Woman Saved from Quagmire

NEW YORK, June 4.—Mrs. Clementine Smith, sixty-nine, of Springfield, L. I., was rescued early today from a quagmire in which she had sunk up to her neck after wandering about the marshes of Jamaica Bay all night.

POET SAYS AGED WIFE WOULDN'T BE HIS MOTHER

Harold Sommer, the automobile poet, who last November married Mrs. Lulu Annetta Coe, wealthy widow of New Haven, Ct., on the ardent agreement, according to Mr. Sommer, that they dwell in the gentle platonic relationship of mother and son in acting as nurse to the ailing bridegroom, has asked matrimonial ventures.

In a remarkable letter to friends in this city the poet has given, under his own hand, a detailed statement of his unprecedented marriage.

In his letter he says he met Mrs. Coe in New York. She had received $250,000 from her late husband. He writes as follows:

"Although Mrs. Coe was then fifty-seven time is now fifty-eight and I was twenty-nine, she impressed me as being a gentle and kindly old lady. She was considerably older than my mother had been white hair and wore spectacles.

"I visited her in New Haven and saw the daintily urged him to make his permanent home with her. At first she was going to adopt me, but they agreed marriage would be better, as they were wedded in City Hall, New York, on November 6. The following day—

"She showed me the new will she had just drawn, leaving me $175,000, her house and furniture and fine jewelry. But at the same time a new will was executed, construction upon the latent maternal instinct that I felt impelled to leave her.

"My wife and I had absolutely irreconcilable ideas as to what constituted the relationship of mother and son.

"I still believe that there are old ladies in the world who, if they promise to be mothers to young men, would really be so, and I have proved by my own conduct that there are young men in the world who, if they promised to be sons to old ladies, would insist on such relationship, despite offers of $175,000 or more."

Wants Health Bill for Bridegrooms

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Washington may be the first city in the United States to have a law making it necessary for men who wish to marry to produce a medical certificate before they can obtain a license.

Commissioner of the District of Columbia, is working out the plans for a bill to be introduced in Congress making a medical certificate of good health a necessary part of the procedure of obtaining the right to wed.

98 GIRLS AND 18 MEN EARN B. U. DEGREES

The fair girl graduates who received their diplomas at the Boston University commencement exercises today in Tremont Temple argued that women are not only man's equals, but are his "betters."

And in proof of their statement they pointed out these figures on the commencement program:

Eighty-four young women won their A. B. today.

But fourteen young men took this degree today.

Fourteen young women won their A. M. today.

But four men took this degree today.

"Which," said the fair girl graduates, "proves our argument."

That the girls make better students than the men was admitted by some of the faculty members, who said the girls attain higher marks, are more punctual and study harder than the men.

In all about 275 degrees were awarded today by President Marlin. Among the honorary degrees was that of LL.D. to Daniel T. O'Connell. There were also Ph.D's.

Among the eighty-four awarded the degree of bachelor of laws was Miss Hazel Agnes Small. Miss Small lives in Medford and is under twenty-one. She will not actually receive her degree until she reaches that age.

Twelve M. D. degrees were awarded to ten men and two women. Forty-six men who won the degree of bachelor of science (biology).

Students and faculty gathered in Gilbert Hall and marched into Tremont Temple, where the invocation was delivered by Rev. Dr. Dillon Bronson. Attorney Alfalon H. Fletcher of New York delivered an oration on "To What End?"

On the platform was former Governor John L. Bates, president of the university trustees. The benediction was pronounced by former President Warren.

Halibut Now 3 Cents, Record Low Price

Halibut, which sold at wholesale as high as 60 cents a pound in Boston a short time ago, sold on T Wharf today for 3 and 5 cents a pound. Captain Peter Dunsky in the Gloucester schooner Tenter arrived in port today from the Labrador coast with 80,000 pounds of fresh halibut, which, coming on top of other arrivals, sent the price to the lowest point in years. Captain Dunsky also brought 15,000 pounds of salt halibut and 25,000 pounds of salt cod, and sold his catch for upwards of $4,000.

Advance Suffrage Bill in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 4.—In the House today the measure providing for votes for women was advanced to third reading. An attempt to strike out the enacting clause was lost, 92 to 34. Advocates of the bill today declared it was certain to pass.

Whitman Is Given University Degree

NEW YORK, June 4.—New York University, at its annual commencement today, conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws upon District Attorney Charles S. Whitman of New York. The graduates numbered 515.

MRS. FRANCIS RHAM LARKIN, who before her marriage in New York today was Miss Bessie Frank Yoakum.

Manhattan Society at Yoakum Wedding

NEW YORK, June 4.—One of Manhattan's most important weddings, from a society standpoint, took place this afternoon in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, where Miss Bessie Frank Yoakum, daughter of Benjamin F. Yoakum, the railroad and financial man, was married to Francis Rham Larkin of this city.

The bride's attendances included her sister, Mrs. Paulding Fosdick, and Mrs. George G. Bourne as matrons of honor; Miss Mattie Terry and Miss Louise of San Antonio, Miss Henriette Elsberg of Corpus Christi, Tex., and Miss Marjorie Bourne and Miss Helen Miller of this city as bridesmaids. John A. Larkin, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Yoakum gave a reception in the couple at their home No. 16 East Sixty-seventh street, after the ceremony. Saturday night they will give a dinner to the bridal party.

Aged, Wrinkled Faces Easily Rejuvenated

(From The Beauty Seeker)

An aged face is often only a mask to a comparatively youthful person. Recently a countenance young and fair to look upon, it's a simple matter to remove the dissipated, wrinkled mask, to be had at any druggists, gradually absorbs the worn-out surface skin; in a week or two the new and fresh, pinky white complexion appears. An ounce of the wax usually is sufficient to completely remove the most deep-rooted wrinkles, freckles, moth patches, liver spots, pimples, blackheads and other cutaneous blemishes, naturally vanish with the discarded skin.

To remove wrinkles, here is a recipe that cannot be too highly recommended: Powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in pint witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion. It acts instantaneously and is wonderful for enlarged pores.

HUNT PLOT IN ULSTER SEIZURE OF 6,000 GUNS

BELFAST, Ire., June 4.—The authorities believe that they have checked an incipient revolt of Orangemen by the seizure of 6,000 German rifles, consigned to Alexander Herdman of the Glen Mills, Strabane. The rifles were described as "electrical machinery." The Orange millhands have been drilling for several weeks, and it is believed these rifles were intended for distribution among them.

A previous shipment of over 2,000 rifles was returned by the parties to whom they were consigned. It was charged they were of inferior quality.

Orange leaders have for some time past been threatening revolt on account of the Irish home rule movement, and the government is said to have all the evidence necessary for a prosecution. It is not known whether the prosecution will be undertaken, as the officials say the leaders of the prospective revolt would be only too glad of the chance to show themselves as martyrs.

Government agents have had knowledge of the movement of the rifles from the time the firearms arrived in England. They were sent to Belfast by a roundabout route by way of Birmingham, and Manchester. It is said it was planned to distribute them throughout Ulster.

Rose Wins as Mayor of Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Harry H. Rose, independent candidate for Mayor of Los Angeles, has won over John W. Shenk, the municipal conference candidate, by 2,000 votes, according to estimates made today on yesterday's election results. Rose had the support of the Socialists, who failed to nominate Job Harriman in the primaries.

Beauty Doctor Tells Secret

Detroit Beauty Doctor Gives Simple Recipe to Darken Gray Hair and Promote Its Growth.

Miss Alice Whitney, a well-known beauty doctor of Detroit, Mich., recently gave out the following statement: "Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, promote its growth and make it soft and glossy. To half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of the hair, relieve itching and scalp diseases, and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair.

STUDENT WHO FEARED FAILURE RIVER SUICIDE

NEW YORK, June 4.—The body of Benjamin Chapman Gibson, the Columbia University student who disappeared on May 24, was picked up in the East River off the foot of One Hundred and Thirty-second street.

Gibson had been worrying lest he had not passed the examinations in Teachers' College, where he had taken a course in pedagogy. It is believed his mind became unbalanced and he drowned himself. A pathetic feature of the tragedy is that he did pass the examinations with honor.

King Victor Throws Bomb from Airship

"Most Exhilarating Experience," He Says, After Flight in Dirigible.

ROME, June 4.—King Victor Emmanuel made a forty-five minutes' flight today in a military dirigible balloon. During the flight bomb-throwing tests were made and the king insisted on hurling a number of dummy bombs at targets on the earth below. Upon alighting he said it was one of the most exhilarating experiences he had ever had.

Quit I. W. W. and End Ipswich Strike

$50 Return to Work Bitterly Denouncing the Organization.

IPSWICH, June 4. The strike at the Ipswich Hosiery Mills ended today after 450 strikers had repudiated the I. W. W. organization and had voted to return to work. The I. W. W. was severed in bitter terms by the strike leaders. The strike began six weeks ago. Most of the strikers reported at the mills today.

SOCIETY OUT TO GREET JUNE BRIDES TODAY

Three notable June brides claimed Greater Boston's attention today. They were the wedding of Allan Forbes, the Boston banker, to Miss Josephine May Ashton Crosby, a New York society girl, at New York; of Miss Marie Lee to Oliver Turner of Brookline, and of Miss Anna Laura Connery, daughter of former Mayor William P. Connery of Lynn, to Joseph M. J. Kavanaugh, the New Bedford publisher.

The Forbes-Crosby nuptials took place in the chancel of Grace Church, New York, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, No. 29 Washington street, New York. Mr. Forbes, Harvard '97, is president of the State Street Trust Company and is a director or officer of several industrial corporations. Boston and Milton society were well represented at the wedding. Miss Dorothy Forbes was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Cornelia Gallatin and Miss Evelyn Whelpley of New York. The bride's brother, H. Ashton Crosby, Jr., was best man. Mr. Forbes and his bride will spend the Summer at Isleboro.

Miss Marie Lee and Oliver Turner were married in the Brookline First Parish Church by the Rev. William Lyon. The bridesmaids were Miss Florence Lee and Miss Marjory Lee, sisters of the bride; Miss Catherine Dorr, Miss Ellen Dolton and Miss Lillian Cotton of Boston, and Miss Esther Turner of Brookline, sister of the bridegroom. Henry Lee, brother of the bride, was best man. Miss Elizabeth P. Lee, third sister of the bride, was maid of honor. There was a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lee of Bayston street. Mr. and Mrs. Turner will live at Beverly Farms.

The marriage of Miss Anna Laura Connery of Lynn to Joseph M. J. Kavanaugh of New Bedford was performed at a nuptial high mass celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Church, Lynn, by Rt. Rev. Mgr. Arthur J. Teeling. A large number of relatives and friends of the couple attended. Miss Josephine Clare Connery and Miss Margaret L. Connery, sister of the bride, were maid of honor and bridesmaid. A reception followed at the home of former Mayor and Mrs. William P. Connery, No. 8 Wheeler street.

The couple went to Atlantic City and will live in New Bedford, where Mr. Kavanaugh is president and general manager of the News Publishing Company.

THREE brides today. Reading from top: Mrs. Allan Forbes, who was Miss Crosby; Mrs. J. M. J. Kavanaugh, formerly Miss Connery; Mrs. Oliver Turner, formerly Miss Lee.

Ex-Congressman's Income Only $500

SCHENECTADY, June 4.—Former Congressman Theron Akin, in requesting the Supreme Court to relieve him of paying $300 a year alimony to the wife who divorced him, declares that his income is less than $500, while his wife's is $1,000.

His oath avers, however, that Akin saved $11,000 out of his $15,000 salary when he was Congressman and that he lived in Washington on $75 a month.

Akin married the woman named by his wife in her suit.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

English motor car engineers are making many tests on benzol, a coal spirit, for automobile fuel instead of gasoline. They claim the engine turns better with it and a greater mileage per gallon is obtained.

One of the most convincing tests on benzol for high speed work was carried out last week on the famous Brooklands racing track. Louis Coatlaen's 12-16 horsepower Sunbeam, which he drove on benzol has a bore of eighty millemeters and a stroke of 112 millimeters, thirty millemeters longer stroke than is the case with standard cars.

In a flying half mile this car obtained a speed of 80.96 miles an hour and from this distance all class records up to ten laps of the track, or twenty-eight miles, were broken. The ten laps were covered at a speed of 82.5 miles an hour.

* * *

There was much rejoicing and lots of cigar smoke in the salesrooms of the Stutz Motor Car Company yesterday. The cause of it was the arrival of Alfred Edward Chase, 2d, one-day-old son of M. F. Chase, New England distributor of the Stutz line.

* * *

The regular meeting and dinner of the Electric Motor Car Club will be held at the Hotel Thorndike tomorrow evening. The recent New England convention will be discussed.

Shoots and Kills Husband as Burglar

CHICAGO, June 4.—Mrs. Louise Van Keuren today shot and killed her husband, John B. Van Keuren, mistaking him for a burglar. The Van Keurens had been separated for several months. Mrs. Van Keuren told the police that she heard the crash of broken glass and saw a hand stretched through to unlock the door. She said she fired at the man and after killing him saw that it was her husband.

$200,000 Fire in Chicago; One Hurt

CHICAGO, June 4.—One fireman was seriously hurt and a half dozen others were overcome by smoke in a fire that did $200,000 damage today to a two-story building three blocks in length occupied by the Lake Tanning Company, a subsidiary of Armour & Co. Vandals were believed to have started the fire.

TEACHERS OPEN WAR UPON FOES ON BEACON HILL

The opening gun in a war on their "enemies" on Beacon Hill was fired by Cambridge school teachers today when they charged that many men and women are openly lobbying at the State House who are not registered lobbyists.

This marked the first broadside in an inquiry started today by the teachers into the "snubbing and other humiliating treatment" accorded fifteen of their number when they went to the State House Monday to see about a bill to increase their salaries.

The investigation is the result of statements made at a meeting of the Cambridge Teachers Club of 500 Cambridge school teachers. The club voted to begin an inquiry at once.

A dozen teachers went to the State House today, where their salary bill comes up in the House. They also had an eye open for the enemies whom they accuse of being behind the "discourteous" treatment of their colleagues Monday.

Miss Florence Hunter of the Morse school, chairman of the club's legislative committee, will direct the investigation. She said:

"The teachers feel that they have been discriminated against and have been discourteously treated. It is well known that there are many registered lobbyists at the State House, both men and women.

"It is also a fact that there are many men and women lobbying up there continually, who are not registered.

"We want fair play and courteous treatment."

The teachers claim the snubbing was done by a Cambridge Representative, who is said to have directed a State House attache to order the teachers out of the waiting room. The teachers further charge that another attache would not let them stand in the corridors.

Girl From New York Blows Out the Gas

WHEELING, Va., June 4.—Being acquainted only with electric lights, pretty Jennie Angell, the daughter of a well-known New York family, had a narrow escape from death by asphyxiation early today. When she retired last night she blew out the natural gasflight. Attaches of the hotel forced an entrance to her room. The young woman was unconscious and physicians revived her.

Chicago City of Rubes, Says Crook

Tells Mates at Police Station That Lake City Is Easy Money Paradise.

CHICAGO, June 4.—In a cell at the South Clark street police station today William Drew, a confessed bogus magazine solicitor, pointed out to occupants of neighboring cells the folly of leaving Chicago if they wished to live by crooked means.

"I worked my scheme in Chicago for four months," he said. "I averaged $40 a day profit. I swindled 4,000 persons. I was never in danger of being arrested. Then I went to Michigan City, Ind. I had not been there four hours before a constable caught me and had me in a cell. Stay in Chicago, pards; there's more rubes there."

Roxbury Piano Storage Salesrooms

His June Piano Sale Now On

J.P.Collins

Founder of the Roxbury Piano Storage Salesrooms. The man who has done more to keep down piano prices than any other dealer in Boston. The Largest Distributor of Pianos in America.

His Great Piano Sales

A Piano Sale here is always a sacrifice, always a bargain sale, always a mark-down sale. The very nature of business, as the public knows, is one of sacrifice. The business here is not conducted like the business of a regular Piano store down town, where they are expected to make a profit on each piano—where they get their profit DIRECTLY out of the sale of pianos. We don't let any piano loaf around on the floor of the Roxbury Storage Salesrooms—it comes in, in DUE TIME. Sacrifice tag is clapped on to it, be it high grade, low grade or middle grade, and it is sold to the first man or woman who wants it for the price marked on the tag—not a cent more or less. The selling price is made on the Roxbury Storage Salesrooms' "Expense percentage" basis, and is figured to let the accounts out clean and clear, without regard to profit—so you can see easily by this statement how these sales must necessarily be sacrifices. Someone's loss is your gain.

The fixed piano stores, with their costly appointments, their high-salaried sales agents, their collect commissions, etc., are no place for the economical piano buyer to go. Take the trouble to look around a little, go up where the rents are not so high and buy your piano right.

Splendid Piano Bargains In June Sale

Many fine new and second-hand upright of other equally first grade makers will go for so little that you would hardly believe the prices if we quoted them.

WITNESS TELLS OF SEEING LOUIS SOBELL FLUNG DYING TO ONE SIDE BY DEATH CAR

about the size of a man named Brewster, who was sitting nearby.

"I would say he was about the size of the defendant, Saunders," added Simpson, looking at the latter. "I am not able to identify anybody as the driver of the machine."

Patrolman Bolch, the next witness, told the court how he worked on the case in getting evidence.

"Saunders told me he went through Talbot avenue about 6:15 p. m.," said Patrolman Bolch. "From further information I gathered I was able to get a warrant out for the arrest of Saunders."

Saw Part of Number.

Another witness for the government was Burton C. Brewster of No. 206 Talbot avenue. He said:

"I was sitting in the window of my home at 6:10 p. m., playing with my child. I saw automobiles passing in either direction. One automobile was numbered 01——. I could not see the other numbers plainly enough to make them out. That was the car, I understand, which struck the boy. There was one man in the car, but I am unable to describe him. I did not see the accident."

This closed the government's case.

Senator Allen then addressed the court. He said:

"From the evidence presented it seems to me, Your Honor, that no probable cause can be shown. If Your Honor would like to hear my witnesses, I shall put them on to testify."

The first witness was Dr. Ernest C. Henson, to whose office at No 9 Standish street, the dying boy was first taken. He said his office is about one-fourth of a mile from the scene of the accident and that the boy was brought there in a car by a man named O'Neill, between 5:55 and 6:10.

He described the injuries as a wound in the cheek, scalp torn off on the left side, one arm "turned up" and a hemorrhage of the brain. He had the child sent to the City Hospital as quickly as possible.

Dr. Arthur B. Sasse, surgeon at the City Hospital, described the wounds in about the same way and said the boy died at 9:35.

Louis C. Mand of Codman street said: "I was riding up Talbot avenue on the rear end of a trolley car between 6:00 and 6:10 when I saw a boy crossing the avenue get hit by an automobile and thrown into the air. I did not know the car or driver. The automobile was driven off. I got off the car and ran to help the boy."

Saw Boy Lying in Street.

Daniel Ledgett of No. 28 Browning avenue, where the Sobell family live, was riding home on a Talbot avenue trolley. He saw the boy in the street and noticed an automobile rushing away, but thinking the victim might be one of his own children, he ran toward the boy and did not pay so much attention to the auto.

Conductor M. J. Hardy of a Talbot avenue trolley saw a boy in the street after his attention had been called to the accident by passengers on the back platform.

EVELYN PROVOST, who says she closes eyes in street cars to avoid stares of "mashers."

NEW YORK MAN MASHER, SAYS MISS PROVOST

NEW YORK, June 4.—"No attractive woman can pass through any public place in New York without being insulted," asserted Miss Evelyn Provost, a cousin of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, who startled Brooklyn society a few months ago by her determination to leave society and earn her living on the stage.

"A well-dressed woman who rides in a street car, although she may gaze steadily up at the advertisements or down at the floor, is painfully conscious of the impudent stares of most of the men within sight," Miss Provost said.

"I have acquired the habit of closing my eyes in a street car or on the subway at the risk of having people think I suffer from sleeping sickness. But you can't help hearing the insolent remarks passed around you.

"The majority of men seem to have no respect for any woman. The much-advertised courtesy of the American man toward women certainly does not apply to the New York man.

"I should like to slice a piece from a man's tongue every time he says the word 'chicken' in connection with a woman. What a lot of dumb males this city would have before long.

"When an attractive, stylishly dressed woman has to walk any distance without an escort, she is a target for stares from all men she passes. Often she is followed by some atrocious creature whose colossal vanity makes him think his attention will be welcome.

"Even the policemen will give you their most fetching smiles when they help you across a street. But this courtesy business is not quite what it is cracked up to be. It is humiliating to all women who have to go alone often."

GIRL KILLED AND BOY HURT BY MOTOR CARS

The Boston police and the State Highway Commission were busy today on two separate automobile cases in which children were injured—one fatally—and in one of which the driver is accused of speeding way without stopping to see what harm had been done.

The police and state Highway Commission both investigated today the accident to fourteen-year-old P. Rosenberg of No. 63 Hollander street. He was knocked down by an automobile while crossing Tremont at Winter street. He was taken to the Relief Hospital.

The police say that the driver put on speed and hurried along without learning how badly the boy had been hurt, but that they secured his license number.

Under the new law, every driver is obliged to report all accidents in which he figures to the State Highway Commission, under penalty of losing his license for failure to make such report.

Stoughton Girl Killed.

The second case, and one which the State Highway Commission is investigating, concerned the killing of four-year-old Alice M. Williams of Roxbury in Stoughton by Henry W. Britton of Stoughton.

The little victim was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Williams of No. 71 Chadwick street, Roxbury. With her mother she was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Monahan at No. 23 Summerstreet avenue, Stoughton.

Alice went out to play with other children. They were running across the road when Alice was hit by Mr. Britton's car. Mr. Britton stopped his car and took the child, who was still breathing, to a doctor's office. She died on the way.

Alfred J. Williams, Alice's father, declared today that the accident could have been prevented. He said:

Everett Opens Crusade.

"The death of my little girl could have been prevented. Mr. Britton could have stopped his car when he saw the children playing in the road. Mr. Britton, I firmly believe, is too old to operate a car now."

To put a stop to reckless driving of automobilists through Everett, Chief William Hill of the police department of that city today instructed his men to roll call to arrest and prosecute all persons who violate the city ordinance relative to the operation of automobiles.

"Heretofore," said Chief Hill, "the police of this city have shown leniency in giving automobilists more than a fair chance, but owing to the many accidents of late, I have decided to take drastic measures to protect the lives of the people of Everett."

Steamship Men Off for Portland

Agent Charles Stewart and other Cunard line officials went to Portland today to attend a celebration by Portland commercial bodies on the arrival there of the Boston-bound Cunarder Francesca, which will stop at Portland to disembark 1,200 passengers. Among the speakers will be Governor Haines, Mayor Curtis of Portland, Grand Trunk Railway officials and others. Portland hopes to arrange with the Cunard company to have the Boston ships of that line make Portland a port of call for several months in the year.

MUNICH, Germany, June 4.—In the presence of distinguished Americans, Miss Margaret M. Sloane, daughter of Professor and Mrs. William Sloane of New York and Berlin, was married at noon today to Benson Bennett Sloan, a Wall Street banker and broker, in St. George's English Church.

Robt. J. Collier Sued by Dancing Teacher

NEW YORK, June 4.—Anna C. Walsh, teacher of calisthenics, dancing and elocution, demands $25,000 damages from Robert J. Collier, the publisher, for injuries alleged to have been caused by a pack of his hounds.

While she was driving on the highway at Eatontown, N. J., her horse ran away and threw her out, crippling one arm. Miss Walsh alleges that the hounds scared the horse and caused the accident.

Publicity Men Off for Baltimore

Pilgrim Association Members Going to Advertising Clubs' Convention.

A delegation of several hundred members of the Pilgrim Publicity Association leave Boston this afternoon for Baltimore to attend the annual convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of America. The delegation will be headed by George W. Coleman, president of the National Association, and Alfred J. Bean, president of the Pilgrims and chairman of their "Go to Baltimore" committee.

The Pilgrims will tour Baltimore wharves on one of the Merchants & Miners steamships. The convention opened Sunday with lay sermons in the Baltimore churches by advertising men and a mass meeting at night addressed by President Coleman. The concluding session will be on Friday, June 13.

Cambridge Takes Up High Cost of Ice

An investigation of the increase in the price of ice in Cambridge was begun by Mayor Barry today by order of the City Council.

The order was introduced by Councilman Metcalf as the result of the recent increase in the price of the commodity from 30 cents to 40 cents for 100 pounds.

The drivers of ice wagons have been ordered not to put 5-cent pieces of ice in order to get this size piece the cost of the city must go to the ice houses.

Plain English

In men's dress, as in men's speech, plain English is the strongest, most pleasing and most expressive style.

"English" in men's clothes means soft roll lapels in place of the pressed flat kind, high cut vests, natural shoulders without cumbersome padding, and trousers of clean-cut narrowness, but not too tight for comfort.

This gives one a very pleasing "slim and trim" look—a style so eminently satisfactory that it will undoubtedly remain the vogue for many years to come. The first English style suits worn in Boston came from this Live Store, and a large proportion of those daily going into service come from the same place. Many exhibit the inimitable handiwork of

WITHIN THE LAW By Marvin Dana, from the Play of Bernard Veiller

PART I.

Copyright, 1912, by the H. K. Fly Company. The play "Within the Law" is copyrighted by Mr. Veiller and this novelization of it is published by his permission. The American Play Company is the sole proprietor of the exclusive rights of the representation and performance of "Within the Law" in all languages.

AGGIE waxed very petulant over his insistence.

"I tell you, I don't know anything! Say, what are you trying to hand me, anyway?"

Burke scowled on the girl portentiously, and shook his head.

"Now, it won't do, I tell you, Aggie Lynch. I'm wise. You listen to me." Once more his manner turned to the cajoling. "You tell me what you know and I'll see you make a clean get-away, and I'll slip you a nice little piece of money, too."

The girl's face changed with startling swiftness. She regarded the Inspector shrewdly, a crafty glint in her eyes.

"Let me get this straight," she said. "If I tell you what I know about Mary Turner and Joe Garson, I get away?"

"Clean!" Burke ejaculated, eagerly. "And you'll slip me some coin, too?"

"That's it!" came the hasty assurance, "Now, what do you say?"

Blue Eyes Blazed

The small figure grew tense. The delicate, childish face was suddenly distorted with rage, a rage black and venomous. The blue eyes were blazing. The voice came thin and piercing.

"I say, you're a great old stiff! What do you think I am?" she stormed at the discomfited Inspector, while Cassidy looked on in some enjoyment at beholding his superior being worsted. Aggie wheeled on the detective. "Say, take me out of here," she cried in a voice surcharged with disgust. "I'd rather be in the cooler than here with him!"

Now Burke's tone was dangerous.

"You'll tell," he growled, "or you'll go up the river for a stretch.

"I don't know anything," the girl retorted, spiritedly. And, if I did, I wouldn't tell—not in a million years!" She thrust her head forward challengingly as she faced the Inspector, and her expression was resolute. "Now, then," she ended, "send me up—if you can!"

"Take her away," Burke snapped to the detective.

Aggie went toward Cassidy without any sign of reluctance.

"Yes, do, please!" she exclaimed with a sneer. "And do it in a hurry. Being in the room with him makes me sick!" She turned to stare at the Inspector with eyes that were very clear and very hard. In this moment, there was nothing childish in their gaze.

"Thought I'd squeal, did you?" she said, evenly. "Yes, I will!—the red lips bent to a smile of supreme scorn—"like hell!"

BURKE, despite his quality of heaviness, was blest with a keen sense of humor, against which at times his professional labors strove mutinously. In the present instance, he had failed utterly to obtain any information of value from the girl whom he had just been examining. On the contrary, he had been befooled outrageously by a female criminal, in a manner to wound deeply his professional pride. Nevertheless, he bore no grudge against the adventuress. His sense of the absurd served him well, and he took a lively enjoyment in recalling the method by which her plausible wiles had beguiled him. He gave her a real respect for the adroitness with which she had deceived him—and he was not one to be readily deceived. So, now, as the scornful maiden went out of the door under the escort of Cassidy, Burke bowed gallantly to her lithe back, and blew a kiss from his thick finger tips, in mocking reverence for her as an artist in her way. Then he seated himself, pressed the desk call button, and, when he had learned that Edward Glider was arrived, ordered that the magnate and the District Attorney be admitted, and that the son also be sent up from his cell.

"It's a sad business, sir," Burke said, with hearty sympathy, to the stricken father, after the formal greetings that followed the entrance of the two men. "It's a very bad business."

"What does he say?" Glider questioned. There was something pitiful in the distress of the man, usually so strong and so certain of his course. Now, he was hesitant in his movements, and his mellow voice came more weakly than its wont. There was a pathetic pleading in the dulled eyes with which he regarded the Inspector.

"Nothing!" Burke answered. "That's why I sent for you. I suppose Mr. Demarest has made the situation plain to you."

Glider nodded, his face miserable. "Yes," he has explained it to me," he said in a lifeless voice. "It's a terrible position for my boy. But you'll release him at once, won't you?" Though he strove to put confidence into his words, his painful doubt was manifest.

"I can't," Burke replied, reluctantly, but bluntly. "You ought not to expect it, Mr. Glider."

"But," came the protest, delivered with much more spirit, "you know very well that he didn't do it!"

Burke shook his head emphatically in denial of the allegation.

"I don't know anything about it—yet," he contradicted.

The face of the magnate went white with fear.

"Inspector," he cried brokenly, "You—don't mean—" Burke answered with entire candor.

"I mean Mr. Glider, that you've got to make him talk. That's what I want you to do, for all our sakes. Will you?"

"I'll do my best," the unhappy man replied, forlornly.

A minute later, Dick, in charge of an officer, was brought into the room. He was pale, a little dishevelled from his hours in a cell. He still wore his evening clothes of the night before. He's face showed clearly the deepened lines, graven by the suffering to which he had been subjected, but there was no weakness in his expression. Instead, a new force that love and sorrow had brought out in his character was plainly visible. The strength of his nature was springing to full life under the stimulus of the ordeal through which he was passing.

The father went forward quickly, and caught Dick's hands in a mighty grip.

"My boy!" he murmured, huskily. Then, he made a great effort, and controlled his emotion to some extent. "The Inspector tells me," he went on, "that you've refused to talk—to answer his questions."

DICK APATHETIC

Dick, too, winced under the pain of this meeting with his father in a situation so sinister. But he was, to some degree, apathetic from over-much misery. Now, in reply to his father's words, he only nodded a quiet assent.

"That wasn't wise under the circumstances," the father remonstrated hurriedly. "However, now, Demarest and I are here to protect your interests, so that you can talk freely." He went on with a little catch of anxiety in his voice. "Now, Dick, tell us! Who killed that man? We must know. Tell me."

Burke broke in impatiently, with his blustering fashion of address.

"Where did you get—?"

But Demarest raised a restraining hand.

"Wait, please!" admonished the instructor. "You wait a bit." He went a step toward the young man. "Give the boy a chance," he said, and his voice was very friendly as he went on speaking. "Dick, I don't want to frighten you, but your position is really a dangerous one. Your only chance is to speak with perfect frankness. I pledge you my word, I'm telling the truth, Dick." There was profound concern in the lawyer's thin face, and his voice inbued to oratorical arts, was emotionally persuasive. "Dick, my boy, I want you to forget that I am the District Attorney, and remember only that I'm an old friend of yours and of your father's, who is trying very hard to help you. Surely you can trust me, now, Dick, tell me. Who shot Griggs?"

$75,000 MANOR HOUSE BURNED BY MILITANTS

TROWBRIDGE, Eng., June 4.—Damage estimated between $75,000 and $100,000 was done at Westwood, a suburb, today by militant suffragettes, who burned an unoccupied manor house.

The old mansion, one of the historic spots of the neighborhood, was shaken by a powder or dynamite explosion during the fire.

The late Sir Henry Curtiss Bennett, the Bow street police magistrate who sentenced Mrs. Pankhurst and other suffragettes, narrowly escaped being murdered by militants shortly before his death, according to Solicitor Harry Wilson.

Sir Henry told Mr. Wilson that he was walking along the cliffs at a seaside resort when he was suddenly seized by one or two women, who tried to push him over the edge. Fortunately he fell the other way, otherwise he would have been killed. When he regained his feet the women had gone.

Th latest outrage attributed to the militants is the destruction by fire of Bough's boathouse at Oxford. A new eight-oared shell for Eton College was destroyed.

Somerville Girl to Be Bride Tonight

Miss Florence M. Thompson to Be Married to R. G. Hopkins.

The wedding of Miss Florence M. Thompson, a Somerville favorite, and Robert G. Hopkins, also of that city, will take place at 7 o'clock this evening at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvan M. Thompson, No. 134 Highland avenue. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Chester A. Drummond, pastor of the First Unitarian Church, Somerville.

Miss Ethel M. Thompson, a sister, will be maid of honor, and Merton W. Hopkins brother of the groom, best man. Edward H. Baker, Jr., of Cambridge, Arthur R. Davis of Somerville, and Gerald T. Wogan of Brighton will usher at the reception which will follow.

The bride will be gowned in ivory white charmeuse, trimmed with chantilly lace and pearls, and carry lilies of the valley. The maid of honor will be in shell pink chiffon, with lace overdress.

The couple will reside in a new house at 270 Beals street, Wollaston, the gift of the bride's father.

Sentenced to 12 Haircuts a Year

CLEARFIELD, Pa., June 4.—Harry Lawson Drew, a young member of a prominent family of this city, was before Judge Smith charged with larceny and ball jumping. The Judge was disposed to be lenient and said: "I sentence you to have your luxurious shock of black hair clipped once a month for the next year." Drew, who is very vain of his hair begged the court to send him to jail, but spare his hair. The Judge refused, and Drew, sobbing, left the courtroom.

U. S. IN NO SHAPE TO MAKE WAR, SAYS DR. GEO. L. PERIN

The United States is in no condition to go to war with Japan or any other nation. Within a week from the declaration of war the Philippines would be in the hands of the Japanese and we could do practically nothing to prevent it. The Monroe Doctrine is a menace and one that has got to remain. For this reason we should have an army and navy that will at all times be of sufficient force to protect what we have undertaken.—Rev. George L. Perin before the Massachusetts Women's Progressive Party Club at the Brunswick.

Hint at Suicide By Woburn Man

Ervin M. Brown Writes Wife He Is Weary of Life's Battle.

Ervin M. Brown of No. 22 Cleveland avenue, Woburn, has not with harm or made away with himself in Boston, relatives fear, judging by a letter he sent his wife since he disappeared Thursday.

Brown, who is forty-six, has been in ill health some time. He came to Woburn from Newbury, Vt., last Fall. Since then he has been unable to do hard work.

When he left home Thursday, he said he was going to Boston. He has not been seen since. In his letter to Mrs. Brown, which he wrote from Boston, he said:

May 29, 1913.

My Dear Wife—When you read this I shall be gone. I give up the fight. My poor, tired nerves won't rest and life is a burden. Forgive me, but it is better so and you will be much better off without me. Oh, my darling Ruth, do not forget papa, for he loved you so. Grow up to be a good girl and a blessing to mother. Goodby, Goodby. ERVIN.

The Ruth referred to is Mr. Brown's four-year-old daughter.

Brown was dressed in a brown tailor made suit, a soft brown hat and black shoes. He is 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs about 135 pounds. He has brown eyes and wears glasses. He has a smooth shaven face and his hair was grey. Mr. Brown had $75 with him.

Dies at Bidding of 'His Father's Spirit'

NEW YORK, June 4.—The death of Max Freedman, in his home at Highland Park, has plunged the family—a notable one in New Jersey—into grief mingled with awe. A week ago Joseph H. Freedman, a brother, living in New Brunswick, N. J., believed he saw a vision of his father, long dead. "Come with me, Joe," pleaded the apparition, according to Mr. Freedman. "I am lonely and I must have you with me."

Reo Model J—Price $1800—Capacity, 1½ to 2 Tons

This REO Two-Ton Truck Will Convince You

Perhaps you are one of those shrewd, carefully calculating business men who say: "Some day I'll adopt motor truck delivery, but not until the right truck comes along and convinces me that it actually can earn money for me."

This Reo "Model J," 1½ to two-ton capacity, is the motor truck you have been waiting for, and we are ready to convince you that it can earn money for you.

All we ask is a chance to talk over with you the ordinary hauling conditions that you encounter from day to day. Then let us put Reo figures before you, and show you how to cut costs. If yours is an exceptional business, and cannot profit by the use of a Reo truck, we will be just as glad to tell you so, for we want to keep the Reo record unbroken. "Every truck a money earner for its owner."

The True Secret of REO Superiority

Don't liken this big, powerful Reo to any other motor truck you have watched, until you have had a chance to examine it in detail, and to see what a marvelous advance it shows over previous types.

After producing several hundred we set them to work in different parts of the country, under all possible varied conditions, until we were satisfied that every possible weakness had been "ironed out."

That finished result, Reo "Model J," is now offered to you at the unprecedented price of $1800 and includes these

EXCLUSIVE REO FEATURES

The strong, simple, powerful motor, cushioned on the sub-frame from all jars and road-shocks, is held in check by a hydraulic governor, so that it cannot race or go beyond a safe, careful speed, no matter how far the throttle is opened by the driver.

The load is placed so that 80% of the weight is carried over the rear axle, thus greatly increasing traction.

Center control, left side drive, very simple to operate. The driver keeps his mind on his work, not on the operation of the truck.

The wonderful "Reo" sectional radiator is made of 24 separate, independent, removable units. One or many of these can be damaged and removed without putting the truck out of service. The heavy springs and armored front protect the truck against damage from road shocks or collisions.

Let us Discuss Delivery Costs With You

We have some interesting facts and figures to show you and if your business does not require a two-ton truck, let us show you our Light Delivery Power Wagon, Reo Model H, capacity 1500 pounds, price $750.

HARVARD CREWS SHOW STRONG IN PRACTICE

RED TOP, Ct., June 4.—The first hard work of the Harvard varsity eight this season occurred late yesterday afternoon, when Coach Jim Wray sent his charges over the entire course up stream for a hard paddle. Although the conditions were ideal, with a flood tide and wind favoring, no attempt was made to beat time, they being content to row easily over the course, starting at twenty-eight strokes to the minute for the first two miles, and then gradually raising it to thirty-four for the last two miles.

No time was given out, but the row was very satisfactory to all. The varsity boats and freshman crews took it easy both morning and afternoon, paddling down to the two mile mark and back in the afternoon, and all the crews took it easy in the morning on account of rough water and the late arrival of two of the varsity crew, Goodale and Reynolds, who arrived in time to take their regular seats for the afternoon work, the crew going out as follows:

Stroke, Chanler; No. 7, Stratton; No. 6, Goodale; No. 5, MacVicker; No. 4, Harwood; No. 3, Morgan; No. 2, Trumbull; bow, Reynolds; cox, Abeles.

The changes involved Chanler at stroke, Harwood moving to No. 4 and Meyer going to the first varsity four.

Lars Anderson's "Boxing" was exposed in front of the quarters and watched the crews at work.

Sidelights on Sports

By A. H. C. MITCHELL

IT was only after the New York and Chicago clubs had closed a deal whereby Hal Chase goes to the White Sox in exchange for Borton and Zeider that President McAleer of the Red Sox ceased his negotiations for "Prince Hal." McAleer has a great opinion of Chase as a ball player. He thinks he is the greatest first baseman that wears spiked shoes and that he is one of the cleverest men at the bat that there is in the big leagues.

WHILE Engle has played a fine game at first base, the Red Sox management has find that his use there was only a makeshift, Engle filling in while Jake Stahl was out of the game on account of his wood. When it seemed likely that Stahl would not be able to play for many weeks, if he was able to play at all, the owners of the Red Sox cost about for a first baseman regular to take his place at the first station.

IT was generally believed that Chase could be secured from the New York club and so President McAleer set about to make a deal. The negotiations began some weeks ago and continued right up to the time that Chicago secured the player. The stumbling block to a trade, as far as Boston was concerned, was the fact that New York wanted Speaker in exchange for Chase. This, of course, McAleer would not listen to. He proposed other trades, but they were rejected as fast as the offers were made. The New Yorks insisted that Speaker must be the man they must have for Chase. McAleer kept at it, however, but had to quit when the New York-Chicago deal was announced.

MOST of the critics say that the White Sox got away the best of the deal. But a careful analysis of the trade would seem to prove that New York did not suffer in the exchange. Borton is a fine hitter. In the thirty-one games he played last year he batted .374. He is an easy, graceful player of the Lajoie type. Several bets have been made that Borton will lead Chase in batting at the close of the year. One wager was that he would beat Chase by thirty points. As for Zeider, he is one of the best all around infielders in the American League. He gets nearly everything and can play any position. His batting record last year was .245. At any rate he will fill a big hole on the New York team and it may be that the trade is just what Chance needed to put his club in the winning division.

CHASE was supposed to have reported to Manager Callahan yesterday morning, but no Prince Hal showed up and as the hours passed Callahan began figuring that mail he would put on first. Borton and Zeider having already quit the team to join the Yankees.

"Always the way," commented a newspaper man, "when a ball player shifts teams he always takes a day or two off before reporting to his new manager."

HARRY LORD did not come to Boston with the White Sox. He cut across country to Portland to pay his family a world visit. He was hit on the elbow by a pitched ball the other day, but Callahan said he would be in the regular line-up as usual.

THE Red Sox management had about a ton of antidisappointment heaped up over in a corner of the grounds against the appearance in the box of his Ed Walsh. Recently a physician told the great slab pitcher that the constant use of the spit ball was ruining his stomach. Walsh added this piece of information to his other ailments and kept on pitching.

BASEBALL CHATTER

Falkenberg, the elongated Nap pitcher, won his tenth straight victory, but it was on the fokey order. The Naps were behind when a pinch hitter went to bat for Falkenberg, but when Steen went into the box the Naps had jumped into the lead.

* * *

Eddie Collins of the Athletics got a triple and a homer out of four times at bat yesterday.

* * *

Five errors made by the Tigers enabled the Athletics to score a 7 to 3 victory.

* * *

Ty Cobb made one hit yesterday out of three times up. Joe Jackson, his batting rival, did ditto.

* * *

Leon Ames, traded by the Giants to the Reds about two weeks ago, pitched a three-hit shutout victory yesterday against the Dodgers.

* * *

The Giants' victory yesterday and the Dodgers' defeat broke the tie for second place and sent the Giants into the runner-up position just 97 points behind the Phillies.

* * *

The Yankees to date have established a record that is without equal and one which will no doubt stand for all time. They have failed to win a game on their home grounds. They have lost fifteen straight on the Polo field since the season opened.

* * *

Sweeney's failure to play for a runner at home in the seventh inning of the Yankee-Naps game yesterday turned the tide of battle and enabled the Clevelanders to romp home an easy winner.

* * *

Eddie Ainsmith, Washington catcher, has drawn an indefinite suspension for heaving a handful of sand at an umpire on Monday.

* * *

President Lynch of the National League has thrown out Brooklyn's protest of the Phillies 3 to 0 victory on May 22 which game was called in the fifth inning on account of rain.

* * *

Borton, the first sacker secured by the Yankees from the White Sox, played his first game in a New York uniform yesterday and delighted the fans with his aggressiveness around the first station.

* * *

The Senators won a hard-fought victory from the Browns yesterday, errors by the Brownies helped enabling the Washington boys to push over the winning run.

* * *

Giant fans are wondering just what Manager McGraw plans to do with Third Baseman Eddie Grant, whom he purchased from the Reds yesterday. The Giants seem well fortified in the infield and utility players without Grant.

* * *

Bobby Groome of the Senators fanned twelve Browns yesterday.

The Red Sox were a happy bunch of ball players today. They believe that they have now struck their proper stride and that they will soon begin to close in on the leaders in the American League pennant race. Yesterday's 3 to 2 victory over Chicago White Sox has put new life into Stahl's men.

The world's champions have won three straight games this week. Their first two wins were gained in New York at the expense of the poor Yankees.

President McAleer was feeling like a two-year-old today and remarked: "Watch us closely from now on. The boys are beginning to show their real form and will soon be battling with the leaders. Wouldn't sixteen or seventeen wins in a row look good, eh?"

The White Sox were ready to make things interesting for Stahl's men today. Yesterday's defeat has made them determined to down the local pennant chasers today.

"Buck" O'Brien will probably pitch for Boston today. "Buck" is traveling at a merry pace and should prove a difficult proposition for the White Sox batters to solve.

Benz may pitch for the visitors. It is Ed Walsh's turn to perform on the mound, but Callahan is planning to save the big fellow and start him against Joe Wood.

Milburn Will Be Able to Play Polo

NEW YORK, June 4.—Positive assurance given today that Devereaux Milburn, the great American polo player, who was injured Saturday, will be able to play in the international match, lifted the supporters of the Yankee team out of their gloom. The British polists, however, are big favorites, a bet having been registered in the Stock Exchange yesterday of $2,500 to $1,000 on the chances of the English players. There is plenty of English money in sight, but little American.

Fan Hits Umpire With Pop Bottle

CHICAGO, June 4.—A report has reached the office of President Chivington of the American Association that Umpire Johnstone's head was so badly cut by a thrown pop bottle after a game in Milwaukee that six stitches had to be taken in it. Some spectator, enraged when Johnstone ordered Outfielder Randall from the game for too strenuous objection to decisions, is believed to have thrown the bottle.

Jack Twin Sullivan After Heavy Title

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRACISCO, June 4.—With the passing of ill-fated Luther McCarty, the white heavyweight championship seems to have been thrown on the market. At least that is the way the matter is viewed by white hopes generally, judging from the number of claims to the title that are being made.

Jack (Twin) Sullivan, who, while an old timer, is not by any means so ancient a piece of architecture as Fitzsimmons, has also put in a claim. In a letter to the writer Jack says:

I want to let you know that I am out after the white championship, and I think I have as much right to it as anybody else. My record will show this. I bested Gunboat Smith here in Buffalo and I fought Joe Jeannette a hard ten-round battle. This is surely enough to entitle me to a crack at the best of them, and I would like to start with George Rodel, the fighting Boer.

$28,000 Profit on Harvard Athletics

The annual report of W. F. Garcelon, the graduate treasurer of the Harvard Athletic Association, just issued for the year 1912-13, shows a net profit of almost $28,000, one of the largest balances ever accumulated from athletics at Harvard.

The receipts for the past year were $157,359, while the expenses amounted to $129,431.65. The self-supporting sports during the past year have been football, baseball and hockey. All the other sports separately were carried on at a loss.

At the annual meeting of the athletic association, in addition to hearing the treasurer's report, the members also elected three undergraduates to serve on the athletic committee next year. The new men elected were L. M. Mills, '14, of Portland, Ore., a member of the 'varsity crew squad; G. F. Plimpton, '14, of Buffalo, N. Y., manager of the football team, and W. A. Barron, '14, of Newburyport, the fast quarter-miler of the track team.

Kid Julian, the Syracuse featherweight, practically knocked out Teddy Hubbs of Pittsburgh in the seventh round.

PITTSBURGH, June 4.—The Boston Pilgrims left here last night for Chicago, where today they opened a series of four games with Johnny Evers' crabbed Cubs. Manager Stallings said before departing that he was not discouraged over the poor start on the Western trip, which his men made here. He is still convinced that his bunch will make some of the Westerners sit up and take notice before they return home.

"We played pretty fair ball in Pittsburgh," he said. "Friends of mine here tell me I have what looks more like a ball team than anything that has represented Boston for years. I intend to make it still better before I am through, but it takes time to build up a trailer. One thing you will notice about my bunch; they are hustling all the time, and they don't quit as soon as the other side takes a run or two. That is the encouraging sign.

Rapp, c.	Grinnell, l.f.
Young, c.	Brown, s.s.
Felton, p.	Hodge, c.

Harvard and Williams played their annual game on Soldiers Field this afternoon. Judging from the record of the Williams team, the visiting nine is one of the best that has come to Soldiers Field this season, and Harvard will be hard pushed to win.

It was Williams that broke Yale's winning streak with a 2 to 0 victory. Hodge, who pitched for Williams in that game, will be in the box again this afternoon and will be opposed by Sam Felton.

Ainsmith Suspended by Ban Johnson

WASHINGTON, June 4. — Manager Clark Griffith of the Washington American League ball team has received notice from President Johnson of the indefinite suspension of Catcher Eddie Ainsmith because of his conduct in Monday's game, when he hurled a handful of dirt at Umpire O'Loughlin after being called out on a close play.

GIBBONS BEATS WHITE EASILY AT ATLAS A. A.

By JACK CONWAY.

Mike Gibbons gave another wonderful exhibition of boxing at the Atlas A. A. last night. The St. Paul marvel was pitted against Joe White of South Boston and won with ease. He could have knocked White out if he had desired to do so. Mike, however, fought under wraps, and held back on several occasions when the Peninsular lad was practically helpless.

Gibbons was complete master of the situation after the first round. He landed White almost at will, and crossed his right to his opponent's head and body with telling force. The Westerner's footwork was to the queen's taste, while his blocking, judging of distance and general all-round work was superb.

The "fans" were with White almost to a man. They were anxious to see him make a good showing against his famous rival. But Joe was outclassed, and, try as he might, was unable to land many stinging punches.

White Put Up Game Fight.

The South Boston boxer won many friends by his game work. He was nervous in the first few rounds, but soon steadied down. He was on the receiving end of a large number of hard blows, but fought gamely on. He refused to admit defeat until Referee Jack Sheehan had pointed to Gibbons' corner at the end of the twelfth round.

White was beaten and beaten badly, but he made a much better showing against Gibbons than Gus Christie did in his bout here. Christie is rated as one of the best middleweights in the West, so White should not be discouraged because he was vanquished in his first important battle.

Gibbons is a big favorite with Boston "fans." He has made good in his two bouts here, and it would not be a bad idea for the Atlas club to match him with a "headliner" like Jimmy Gardner, Leo Houck of Frank Klaus. There is not a 153-pound boxer in the world capable of holding Gibbons on even terms. It will take one of the star middleweights to make the St. Paul man extend him self to the limit.

Terry Brooks Beats Mack.

"Fighting Terry" Brooks of New York won from Frankie Mack of Beachmont in the semi-final "go" of eight rounds. Mack put up a clever bout, but Brooks' aggressive tactics and punching ability earned for him the decision.

There were two six-round preliminaries. Al Limerick of Haverhill defeated Al Ketchel of New York, while "Young" Kenney, who hails from Woburn bested Ed Bennett of Quincy.

Eddie Grant Sold to the Giants

NEW YORK, June 4.—Eddie Grant, third baseman of the Cincinnati team, has been purchased outright by Manager McGraw of the Giants. The price was $3,500. No other players are involved.

'Nobody's Business if I Do Quit,' Says Chase

NEW YORK, June 4. Hal Chase not reported to the White Sox in Boston. He watched the Cleveland-New York game at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon. His presence was the foundation of a rumor that he would refuse to play elsewhere. He quit organized baseball once before, jumped Clark Griffith's scrappy Yankee tailenders in the 1908 campaign.

Whether he was anticipating a second desertion of organized baseball Chase refuse dto say.

"It's nobody's business," he told an AMERICAN reporter. "I wouldn't tell if I'd dattend to quit."

A well-known politician closely connected with the New York management strongly intimated trouble of some sort which might indicate some possibility of a hitch in the recent deal should Hal fail to report to Callahan. Chance declared, however, that he had no further interest in Chase, and that Zeider and Boston would stick if they could deliver the goods for him.

George W. Grimm is manager of this fast outfit. Address all challenges to Jim at No. 6 Highland park, Roxbury.

M'Carty's Estate Is Worth $11,000

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 4. Application to be appointed administrator of the estate of Luther McCarty, the heavyweight fighter killed in a bout with Arthur Pelky, has been filed in the Probate Court here by Otto Lippmann, representing the widow. Lippmann managed the bouts here in which McCarty first attracted attention.

The McCarty estate consists of $8,000 on deposit in a Los Angeles bank from bets in a Boston subura and other possessions totalling $11,000. McCarty left no will. His widow and two-year-old daughter are his only heirs.

Detroit Tigers Buy Ottumwa Stars

OTTUMWA, Ia., June 4.—Pitcher Grimes, winner of 11 straight victories and not scored on in 80 consecutive innings, was purchased from Ottumwa by Detroit, which also took first baseman Burns, whom Manager Egan recently purchased from Burlington for $300.

The men brought a sum believed to be $4,000, and are subject to immediate delivery. Grimes won 18 out of 19 games with Austin, Minn., last year. Burns has been hitting near .500.

A Story of Baseball, Big Business and the Real Thing in Romance

THE TRIPLE TIE

By A. H. C. MITCHELL

The Most Absorbing New Serial Any Newspaper Has Published in Years

What Has Gone Before

GORDON KELLY, a young man from the mountains, who says that he has never played on any ball club and that he has never even seen a ball game in his life, induces Manager Bill Smith of the Atlanta club to give him a trial. By his phenomenal playing on the field and his no less phenomenal batting, he arouses almost immediately the sensation of the baseball world. Efforts of the sixteen big league presidents' journey to Atlanta to secure him and the Boston Red Sox finally buy his release from the Atlanta club for $50,000.

In the meantime, he meets and falls in love with Mildred Deery, daughter of Galen Deery, a rich timber speculator. The girl, who is in her turn much impressed, has remained in ignorance of his athletic eminence, and goes to see the last appearance in Atlanta of the "Fifty Thousand Dollar Beauty" without the least idea that her friend is that famous star.

In the last half of the ninth inning, with the score of 9 to 8 against Atlanta, two out and the bases full, Gordon hits a terrific smash. He sends in three runs but in sliding for home he crashes into the catcher, is knocked unconscious and his leg is broken. Mildred Deery runs on the field and takes his head in her lap. Gordon knows nothing of her share in this sensational incident until, several days later, he reads the papers in the hospital. As soon as he can he calls up the Deery home on the telephone, only to be told that Miss Deery is out of town, and it is not known when she will return.

The night after Gordon Kelly leaves the hospital he disappears as if from the face of the earth.

When Galen Deery reads in the papers of how his daughter figured on the ball field, he is thunderstruck and arranges to take her up to his bungalow in the mountains.

Now Go On with the Story

"You dirty, low-lived skunk!" said Hamil. "What do you think I am? And what do you think ball players are?" He stepped out of the car. "Now get out of here," he thundered, "and if you ever speak to me again I'll break every bone in your body."

Posed by (left to right) Frederic Ormonde (as Forrest Cain) and Alfred Lunt (as Pitcher Hamil) of the Cast le Square Theatre Company, Boston

THE superintendent's name was Sheppard, and his family consisted of his wife and boy, a lad of about fifteen years. Mildred promptly became good friends with them all and declared she never wanted to go back to Atlanta again, whereat her father chuckled in his sleeve.

"If you like hunting and fishing, Miss Deery, I can show you a lot of fun up here," said Elmer Shepherd, the lad of fifteen years.

I should enjoy it immensely, Elmer," replied Mildred, "but you will have to teach me."

The boxes and barrels of things Deery had bought in Atlanta arrived on teams before sundown, and Mildred expressed her surprise at the bulk of it. Her father hastened to explain.

"Well, you see," he said, "you will like this place so well that you will be running up every little while from Atlanta, so I just thought I would get in a supply of things to make you comfortable. If there is anything you don't see at you want let me know, and I will have it sent up from the city."

So Mildred settled down to live the life of mountain life. But in these Georgia mountains, in the wild and solitary country, she came upon an adventure that completely changed the course of her existence.

CHAPTER XXI.

FORREST CAIN returned to Atlanta on April 10 after a month's wild and riotous sojourn in the Northern cities. He left that city on the verge of delirium tremens, and even when he reached home it was a question as to whether the services of a snake charmer would be required. For several days he remained in the seclusion of his rooms, being in no condition to seek his accustomed haunts. When, at last, he ventured abroad to his club he found everybody talking about Gordon Kelly. It had become quite a fad among the smart set to attend the ball games, so he motored out to the park that afternoon with some of his friends and was chagrined as well as angered to discover that the hero of the hour was the same person who had chastised him and left him alone far from town on that rainy night a month back.

Like most men of his nature, he did not stop to consider that he was entirely to blame for the humiliation of himself. The episode and rankled in his breast ever since it had happened, and doubtless had not a little to do with the threatened attack of delirium tremens for the thoughts of it drove him to drink at frequent intervals. In his drunken moments—which is to say, most of the time he spent in New York—he tried to form some plan of revenge, some scheme to "get square." They say that strong drink stimulates the mind. May be so. In the case of Forrest Cain, however, his brain was so continually soaked in strong drink that he could not evolve any method, except an impossible one, that would bring about the desired result.

When Cain saw in Gordon Kelly the man who had caused him so much mental anguish, his thoughts reverted at once to the matter of revenge. Now Cain had lived the thirty years of his life in comparative peacefulness. Young men of his wealth and social position seldom get into serious trouble. Their mode of life and their environments serve as a preventative against that sort of thing. Occasionally, in a drunken moment, one of them becomes imbued with the idea that he can whip a policeman, or some thing like that, but a stiff fine in court next morning is usually the end of such an attempt. Men of Cain's class spend most of their time seeking pleasure and there is little chance, or opportunity, of occasion to look for trouble. Aside from a few boyhood scraps, which all boys have, Cain had gone through life without having a real fight. It is true he always had his own way in everything, but some men get that without having to fight for it.

What happened between Forrest Cain and Gordon Kelly could never have happened between Forrest Cain and one of his own friends, but here was a stranger who had crossed his path, brought about a misunderstanding between Mildred Deery and himself, and humiliated him out on that lonely, rain soaked road. Gordon Kelly must be made to see that he had tackled the wrong man. That is the way Forrest Cain felt about it.

Wits Worked Overtime.

While in his states of intoxication the only scheme to "get square" that Cain could evolve was that of walking up to Kelly, handing him a punch in the jaw and repeating the operation as fast as the recipient could arise to his feet until at last he cried for mercy. But now that he was perfectly sober he realized that plan would not do at all. He recalled his previous experience with Kelly, when he was like a rat in the jaws of an Airedale terrier.

While the game was in progress Cain's wits were working overtime and at length he hit upon the primitive (or is it modern?) plan of hiring someone else to punish his enemy. He noticed that Gordon Kelly was having a field day with the bat. And he noticed further that the victim of Kelly's skill, the visiting pitcher, was a tall, raw-boned, strong looking man, with a particularly gloomy and depressing cast of countenance. When Kelly finally won the game with a solid drive in the last inning and the pitcher walked off the field looking daggers, Cain felt that he had found the right man to do his dirty work.

After dining at his club, Cain took his car out of the garage and ran it around to the hotel where the visiting team was stopping. Cain knew nearly everybody in town and he had no difficulty in obtaining an introduction to the sad faced pitcher, who sat off by himself in the hotel lobby, as pitchers sometimes do after losing a game of ball. Most players rely on their batting average to keep them on the salary list, but pitchers must win games or quit the business.

Cain made himself very agreeable to the gloomy pitcher, as he well knew how to do and succeeded in getting his man to accept an invitation to a ride in the automobile. They rode slowly out on the boulevard, Cain casting about in his mind for the proper way to approach the subject. It was something new to him, this trying to get someone to play the thug and he didn't know exactly how to start in. Finally he remarked:

"That Gordon Kelly is a swelled-headed guy."

The dismal pitcher, whose name was Hamil, grunted.

"And a mean cuss, too," Cain went on. He manufactured two or three lies to prove his assertion. "He did me a dirty trick awhile ago," he continued. He faked a proof for this assertion, too. His gloomy companion shifted his feet, but made no answer. Cain beat around the bush for awhile longer and then came out flat footed.

"Someone ought to beat that fellow up good and plenty," he exclaimed. "He made a sucker out of you today, Hamil. I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll give you a thousand dollars right now if you will give Kelly a good licking, and I'll pay all fines that may come out of it."

The gloomy pitcher straightened up in the car.

"Stop her," he said.

The car came to a stop close to the curb. Hamil reached up his right hand and lowered his fingers in a death-like clutch in the back of Cain's collar. Then he ground his left fist into the nose of his host—not a blow, but as a druggist would grind a pestle into a mortar—and followed this with a resounding slap on Cain's face that jarred the teeth of that individual. Cain took it without offering a finger. A previous experience with a husky athlete had proved to him the uselessness of resistance.

"You dirty, low-lived skunk," said Hamil. "What do you think I am? And what do you think ball players are?" He stepped out of the car. "Now get the devil out of here," he thundered, "and if you ever speak to me again, I'll break every bone in your body."

Forrest Cain pitcher stood on the sidewalk while Cain put the car in motion and drove away. Then he started to walk home, full of anger and mortification at the treatment he had received.

As for Cain he drove at once to the garage and repaired to his rooms, feeling that he had made another botch in the matter of dealing with Gordon Kelly. Just as he was progressing in his campaign of revenge he received two severe setbacks at the hands of Kelly himself and a third from Hamil, the gloomy pitcher.

Cain kept under cover for a few days, nursing his grievances, and at the end of that time Kelly met with the accident on the hill. Cain was the only person who took pleasure out of that unfortunate occurrence. It gave him a little leverage, he thought, to get on good terms again with Mildred Deery, whom he had not seen since the morning of the runaway when his car had so nearly run over Gordon Kelly.

Cain had seen Mildred ever since she was a little girl. Their families had been intimate socially for many years. It was only within the past few months, however, that he had taken Mildred seriously. It had suddenly come to him that she had developed into an uncommonly beautiful and attractive young woman and he became seized with the idea that he wanted her for his own. He had no means of knowing how well Kelly had become known to the Deery family; he was inclined to believe that the Deerys had simply been kind to him as a favor to old Judge Barbee, beaming in mind, of course, the fact that Deery had financial reasons for wishing to be on good terms with the young man from the mountains. However this might be, Kelly was now incapacitated from taking part in any social matters and so, with a clear field as it were, Cain resolved to patch his fences and begin a systematic siege of the heart of Mildred Deery.

He had, of course, read all about the part Mildred had played when Kelly was knocked unconscious at the finish of the ball game, but he charged that up to overwrought nerves. The thought never once entered his mind that Mildred had any feeling for Kelly other than she would have for any person who had met with a misfortune.

Forrest Cain called at the Deery residence that evening and, being informed by the maid that answered the ring, that Mildred was out of town, he asked for Mr. and Mrs. Deery and was ushered into the living room where Mildred's mother was seated.

Mrs. Deery told him that Mildred had gone on a little trip with her father and that she did not know exactly when she would return. Truth to tell, Mildred's mother did not care particularly for Forrest Cain. There was a vague something about him that was repellant to her. While he was considered one of the greatest, if not the greatest "catch" in Atlanta, she was perfectly willing that some young woman other than her own daughter should do the catching.

Mother Sensible.

Of a very sensible turn of mind was Mildred's mother. She had not even questioned Mildred on the happenings on the ball field. She knew her daughter would tell her in her own way. And Mildred did tell her as she was making ready to accompany her father to the mountains. This is what she had said:

"You know what I did yesterday, don't you, mother?"

"Yes, dear."

"Well, I just couldn't help doing it, mother. When I saw that poor man lying there as though he was dead, a feeling of pity, or something like it, came over me and I felt, for just that minute, as though Gordon Kelly was my own brother, and I ran to him just as though he was my own brother. Of course, I am sorry for all of us that it got in the papers. Do you feel hurt because I did it, mother?"

"No, dear."

That was all that was said.

Feeling as she did toward Forrest Cain, Mrs. Deery did not propose to tell him where her daughter was, or how long she would be absent. Cain threw out one feeler, but he quickly discovered that Mrs. Deery did not care to inform him, so he did not refer to the subject again. After half an hour of conventional talk he took his departure.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Five Hundred Dollars in Prizes for Best Solution of 'The Triple Tie'

Prizes aggregating $500 offered by the Boston AMERICAN for the best solutions of the great serial novel, "The Triple Tie," as follows:

First prize	$200
Second prize	100
Third prize	50
Fourth prize	25
Fifth prize	15
Sixth prize	10
20 other prizes, each	1

"THE TRIPLE TIE" will be run in generous daily instalments till June 29, when the final chapter will be published. Toward the very close of the story the serial will end abruptly at one of the most dramatic situations ever conceived by a novelist. Readers will then be asked to supply the solution to the several mysteries that are unsolved when the instalments end.

Beg a reading "THE TRIPLE TIE" today, if you have not already done so, and send your solution to the AMERICAN. THIS IS NOT A GUESSING CONTEST. Originality, literary value and analytical clearness will be largely considered in awarding the prizes.

A synopsis of the last instalment will be placed in the hands of Joseph H. O'Neil, president of the Federal Trust Company. It will be held by him in a sealed envelope until a committee of three citizens not connected in any way with the Boston AMERICAN may select the winners of the prizes.

Address all letters to Mystery Editor, Boston AMERICAN.

HINTS ON HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL

EASY SHAMPOO—An easy, quick-drying shampoo can be enjoyed at home for a trifling cost by dissolving a teaspoonful cocoanut in a cup of hot water. This makes a thick, bland lather, wonderfully cleansing and invigorating to both hair and scalp. Rinsing removes all dust, dandruff and excess oil and brings back former rich color and lustre to dullest hair. It makes the head feel good, leaves scalp clean and is easy to do.

SURE HAIR-REMOVER—With a paste powdered delatone and water mix enough paste to cover the hairy surface. Apply and in 2 or 3 minutes remove, wash the skin and it will be found to be free from hair. This treatment is harmless and will not mar nor disorder the skin in the least.

TO REDUCE WEIGHT—Parsons treatment is to eat and retain that few ounces of sort to dieting or violent exercise to regain former slenderness. Prepare the treatment by dissolving a one-ounce parcelle in a pint and a half of hot water. Strain when cool and take one tablespoonful three times each day until desired weight is reached. No fat or roots are felt either by physical or nervous system nor is flesh and skin left flabby and wrinkled.

FOR OILY SKINS—The only requirement for perfect skin are a cleansing bath and the application of some simple lotion. This treatment gives the pores a chance to work unhampered and when Nature is given an opportunity, the skin will become clear, soft and velvety. A reliable face lotion, invisible when on, can be made at home for a trifling sum by dissolving 4 ounces sycamax in ½ pint hot water, to which is added 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply and rub lightly until dry. This will not rub off and clears a sallow, oily skin, giving to it a satin tone.

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

On one occasion a well-known manager went to the theatre for the express purpose of encouraging a young actor who had shown signs of nervousness in a new part. When the promising young man made his exit into the wings, perspiration was streaming down his face. The manager looked at him for a moment and then said, in tones of intense admiration:

"How well your skin acts!"

Teacher—John, can you tell me what is meant by a steward?

John—A steward is a man who doesn't mind his own business.

Teacher—Where did you get that idea?

John—Well, I looked it up in the dictionary and it said, 'A man who attends to the affairs of others.'

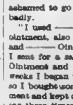
ECZEMA LIKE RASH ITCHING INTENSE

Could Not Sleep at Night. Scratched, Causing Sores to Form. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Months Ear All Healed.



R. F. D. No. 2, Smithbridge, Mass.—"I had eczema in one of my ears that made me suffer a good deal. I could not sleep at night as it would itch so. The eczema broke out like a rash and the itching was so intense that I scratched, causing sores to form. My ear was nothing but a raw sore and I could not get the skin to grow, as it would run and then when it would dry for a few days, would make scales. I was ashamed to go anywhere my ear looked so badly.

I used [illegible] and two kinds of ointment, also [illegible] and Cuticura and [illegible] Ointment without any relief. So I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and when I had used them two weeks I began to see they were helping me, so I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and kept on using them. I washed my ear three times a day with Cuticura Soap and then put the Cuticura Ointment on and in two months' time my ear was all healed up." (Signed) Mrs Alex. Bourior, Nov. 12, 1912

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little that it is almost criminal not to use them. Sold by dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find the Soap exquisite for shaving.

THE MAN WHO IS TIRED OF HIS WIFE

"Absence Makes the Heart Grow Fonder," Says an Old Proverb, and This Is Especially Apt in This Situation.

By DOROTHY DIX

A MAN writes me in great distress. He says that he has been married about fifteen years, and that suddenly a great weariness of spirit has come upon him. His wife is good and kind, an excellent housekeeper, a thrifty manager, and her one object in life is to please him and make him happy, but while he recognizes her virtues and admires them, they leave him cold and unmoved.

In a word, he's tired of his wife. She bores him to death. Just her presence is irksome to him, and when she goes with him on any sort of a pleasure trip it takes all the fun out of the occasion.

This man is no gay Lothario. He is a good, honest, domestic man, who is honestly alarmed at the state of affairs, and he wants to know what he can do to recover the interest he once had in his wife, and the thrills that went through his veins like fire at the touch of her hand.

There is only one remedy for such cases, and that is absence. Only people who have neither nerves, temperament, nor imagination can stand the horrible monotony of seeing the same face opposite them at three hundred and sixty-five breakfasts, and ditto dinners, to say nothing of hearing the same form around the drop for an equal number of evenings a year, and having to listen to the same old stories.

The most beautiful people in the world grow homely to our eyes if we see them too often. The wittiest conversationalists grow tedious if we have a surfeit of their society. The virtues of even an angel pall upon us if they are constantly before us.

REASONS WHY

Probably Mr. Milo thought his Venus too fat or too thin, and asked her why she didn't get another make of corset. Doubtless there were times, before she got a divorce, when Mrs. Caruso said to herself that if Enrico warbled another warble she would scream, and it isn't on record that the immediate family of any of our saints and martyrs ever handed in any testimonial to show what they thought on the subject of the canonization of their husbands or wives.

Why people who cannot eat thirty meals in thirty days; who never want to see the same play twice, or read a book a second time; who tire of their clothes before they are half worn out, and spend their lives hunting for new sights, new emotions, new diversions, new places to go, should ever be foolish enough to imagine that they could endure the undiluted society of one person, year in and year out, passes comprehension.

There are millions of husbands and wives who have had an overdose of each other's society and are suffering from it, and they are so stupid they don't realize what ails them, nor how simple the remedy for it is. Yet the symptoms are unmistakable.

When a man begins to dread the thought of going home of an evening, and to wonder what made him idiot enough to get married and to pick out Sally, of all women in the world, for a wife; when he begins to notice that Sally has gone off in looks and is getting a triple chin, and to have a feather bed figure; when his eyes focus on the little mole on Sally's cheek instead of the cute way her hair curls around the back of her neck; and when he commences wondering if all women talk as much drivel and use as many words in telling nothing as Sally Jones—then it's time for the man to pack his grip and hike away from home and Sally.

He hasn't really fallen out of love with her, as he thinks he has. He's just tired of her for the time being. He doesn't really pine to be a gay rover, as he imagines he does. He just wants to ease the pressure of the yoke of matrimony for a little, and to him—and to his wife—a jaunt to Chicago, or San Francisco, or Hull Centre, or anywhere away from home, is a lifeline that saves them both from destruction.

And it's exactly the same way with women. Of course the theory is that women have such an abnormal talent for loving that a wife never gets enough of her husband's society, but is a female Oliver Twist, always asking for more. Don't you believe it. Women are human creatures, and the best wife in the world can get so sick and weary of a model husband that she is ready to die of sheer ennui.

THE WOMAN'S SIDE

Every now and then a woman gets so that she can see nothing but faults in her husband. Everything he does and everything he doesn't do irritates her, and she, too, gets to wondering what on earth she foolishly ever saw doing on the day she tied up with the miserable little shrimp that she did, instead of marrying some romantic and godlike creature that she didn't marry. She thinks that she is suffering from having missed her affinity and being married to a grounding that can't understand her higher nature, but the whole trouble is that she had too much of her husband's society. All that she needs to effect a complete cure is a month or six weeks' separation.

Of course, being ladies and gentlemen, most of us never admit to our husbands and wives that we are bored. We yawn behind our hands and try to look interested, but in our secret souls all of us know the surging joy with which we saw our dearly beloved husband or wife start off on a journey, or the rapture that filled our own soul when we got to go off somewhere alone, or with perfect strangers.

And we also know the delight with which we returned home, or welcomed back the wanderer, our whole point of vision changed, a little love, a little absence was the one of whom we had been so tired clutched again in his or her lap.

This is why the Summer vacation is such a beneficient institution. We can lay our weariness of our domestic partners on the weather, and get away with a decent excuse. But it isn't the change of climate that does us good. It's the change from the monotony of association, and it sends us back rested and refreshed and romantically in love again.

A TRUE PROVERB

"Absence makes the heart grow fonder," says the old proverb, and this is especially true of husbands and wives. They need to break away every few months just to get a perspective on each other's good qualities and to find out how necessary each is to the other's happiness.

You can overdo matrimony as easily as you can any other good thing, and if there were some way by which we could have married three days a week instead of seven there would be no more divorce.

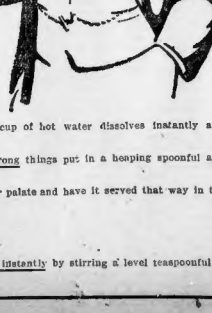
Do You Know That—

Strange methods of greeting the Spring are practiced in the commune of Vaynahmagy, Wales, every year. It is a kissing market, and the institution this year has been more successful than ever. All the women and girls are at liberty to kiss strange men. From the surrounding district all the young women who have been married since last Easter arrive at the kissing market and kiss strange men to their hearts' content.

A rudder with a doorway into the interior is a feature of the Cunarder Aquitania, recently finished. The rudder is so large that a doorway has been constructed in the lower part to admit workmen, so that they can remove the pin which connects the rudder to the ship. This pin is four feet long, and bigger than the heaviest projectile made for modern artillery. When delivered at the builders' yard the rudder was in three parts. After they had been connected and laid upon the ground the distance that had to be walked to pass around the rudder was over one hundred feet.

Sir Walter Raleigh and his companions introduced into England the habit of smoking tobacco on their return from Virginia in 1585.

Wife and I Are Friends of INSTANT POSTUM



"There's a Reason"

"I used to drink coffee—was nervous and irritable. Wife said so.

"So when the new food-drink, Instant Postum, came along she said to herself: 'Here's where I break Jack of the coffee habit.'

"Instant Postum is good stuff. I sleep better, smile more, and miss my indigestion."

A level teaspoonful of Instant Postum in an ordinary cup of hot water dissolves instantly and makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more, and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular Postum (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water.

"The Golden Age"

BY NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, by International News Service

Nell Brinkley Says—

"THE Golden Age," when her wakened eyes have seen eighteen Summer skies, the leanness of childhood is softened into firm curves, but childhood's impatient grace is still in her hurrying footsteps; the wondering Woman looks out of her eyes side by side with a lingering belief in faeries; Love she has not yet known, but there is about her the beating of his scented rainbow wings; her cheeks are child-flesh yet, firm and hard and faintly colored; her lips are babyishly smooth, but she has put her hair up for good and her skirts down to her ankles; the lure of newly found woman ways and the tomboy who sits on the floor on her curled-under feet, meet in her distracting young person. She trails a chiffon gown in a pretty queenliness at the "hop," and climbs a fence the next morning in scorn of a gate; her busy little heart dreams ahead to womanly things and a full life, and yet still yearns to climb a tree. In her all the delectable things of the child, the look, the faith, the freedom, the whole heart, the tireless wonder, mingle with the lovely things of the woman awakened eyes, the out-held hand for what life has to give, the growing wisdom, the reaching mind—mingle and make for a golden minute in her life! The Oriental, the singer, the dealer in lovely words, would say of her: "She is a tree of rosy blossoms, the tree between its slim, thin-leaved Springtime and its season of rich fruit. She is this, the bloom of the tree, that blows and is gone so soon—the golden age between Spring and Summer. She is entirely sweet." The Golden Age is a breathless, fragile instant when the baby and the woman kiss.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

GO, BY ALL MEANS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I expect to go to a dance accompanied by a young man with whom I have quite an understanding. This young man does not dance. Will it be proper for me to dance with other young men, or would you deem it advisable for us not to go to this dance at all? K. E.

THE young man is taking you for your pleasure, and knows that means you will want to dance.

If his experience as a wallflower proves distasteful to him he will not repent it. Could you not persuade him to learn to dance? I am afraid this will make a difference in your choice of entertainment may otherwise make trouble.

LET IT DROP

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am eighteen, and have been keeping company with a man four years my senior. Last week I was out of town for a few days, and the evening I returned a girl friend asked me to go to a dance. My friend was there and escorted another girl home, but did not take me to this dance. Should I ask for an explanation, or should I let the matter drop unnoticed. B. B.

YOU were out of town, and he did not know you would be at the dance. This is sufficient excuse for him if he needs one, but I don't think he does. You are not engaged, and he is not bound to you by any promise.

ASK HER.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty and in love with a girl two years my junior, with whom I have been acquainted for several years. I have been calling on her and taking her out, with the permission of her parents. Whenever I approve of one of her friends by actions she claims she would do the same thing for anybody whom she liked. How can I learn whether she loves me or not? ANXIOUS.

THERE is only one way: Ask her. But don't ask her unless you are financially able to follow up your question with a proposal of marriage and an engagement ring.

The Home Beauty Parlor

By Betty Dean

Alice: You are quite right in assuming that you would not have dandruff if your hair was healthy. Dandruff keeps your hair from growing. It is therefore the cause of all your other "trials." It is the decomposed matter sent forth by the oil glands. Sounds horrid, doesn't it? But it can be relieved wonderfully by this simple remedy made at home: Dissolve one ounce quinsin in ½ pint alcohol; then mix with ½ pint water and you have a tonic for the scalp that is far better than any ready-prepared stuff. Twice a week rub a little well into the scalp. It will loosen your hair to a lustrous, healthy growth. Shampoo with cocoanut.

Mrs D.: You are probably one of the millions who need a tonic because they stayed indoors too much this Winter and ate too much meat and too few vegetables. You evidently need a good tonic and blood purifier. Get one ounce of burdock and half a cup of sugar and dissolve in half a pint of alcohol. Then enough cold pure water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful of this before each meal. Its action is to sharpen appetite, assist proper assimilation, regulate the liver and thereby purify the blood. There is no better general tonic that I know of, either.

Athletics: You certainly do not have to give up all out-door pleasure just because you tan and freckle so easily. There is now you can have your good times—and your good looks, too. Procure a bottle of dissolving 4 ounces of sourmax in ½ pint of hot water. Add 2 teaspoonfuls of dermol. Let stand until cold; then bottle. Apply this morning and night and it will act like magic to keep away the bad effects of exposure to sun and wind. Many women find it a splendid substitute for cold cream face powder; it keeps away the shine of perspiration and imparts a natural healthy glow without an artificial look. In fact, it seems like a part of the skin.

Middle-Aged: I have every sympathy with your objection to "facing the light" if your complexion is not good and wrinkles are liberally in evidence, but I am sure you are mistaken in saying it is "ruined." All it needs, probably, is toning up. When the skin is tinted, and flabby it can be restored to fresh firmness by this simple means. Get one ounce of almonds and mix with two teaspoonfuls of glycerine, add ½ pint cold water, stir and let stand two hours. Apply freely and note the contracting of the skin, which acts as a pore cleanser and eliminator of circulation. If used freely will not grow hair. I have found great benefit in this lotion because of its healing effect on the pores and outer cuticle as well as on the tissues beneath.

E. L. D.: I sympathize with you in the "coldness" and fall of your hair. I am glad I can tell you just how to relieve it as well as dandruff and all the same time avoid the brittle dryness caused by soap shampoos. Get some quinsin in ½ pint alcohol, and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Never use soap. The exertion is enough, leaving the scalp perfectly clean and the hair fluffy, giving the appearance of an abundant growth whether you have it or not.

Mrs. B. W.: From what you say about your eyes, I am sure all they need is a little care. Get an ounce of boric acid and dissolve in a pint of soft water. Drop two drops daily in each eye, or dissolve if the lids are inflamed. This treatment faithfully used restores brightness and color to the eye as well as clear sight. Many actresses use eyelas to make the eyes sparkle, and it has this effect without the unnatural paraffin results.

R. B.: Your excessive flesh will be even more troublesome as the weather grows warmer, and you are quite right to take some simple means of reducing it. Ask your druggist for 4 ounces of yarrolin. Dissolve this in one and a half pints of water. Take a tablespoonful of the solution after each meal. This is simple, safe and sure. Yarrolin merely aids nature in establishing a normal assimilation of food. You do not have to exercise violently or restrict your diet.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

THARE was a yung man calm to our house the other nite who has just graduated from West Point. He was a nice yung man. He was as strate as a arrow & his clothes fit him fine. He is a frend of Ma's unkel, who also went to West Point & was shot in the back reers ago in a Injun campain. Ma never likes to talk much about her unkel, because Pa is all the time wanting to know how it was that he got shot in the back.

The name of the yung man was Gilbraith Denton. His naim was like the naime of the army offiers in plays & stories and he was very handsum. The only thing I dident like about him was that he was all the time bragging. He is the only West Point man I ever saw that bragged. Most of them knows better wen they get thru school.

I havent the faintest likes ware they will send me, he tould Pa & Ma. My only wish is to be sent to some post ware there is plenty of action & danger. Danger is smiled upon, he sed. The direct peril in the world is like that much custard pie to me. I think I grow taller & broder on a diet of danger, he sed. Dosnt you feel that way? he asked Pa.

PA IS MODEST

I think Pa was going to say Yes, but he saw Ma grinning at him & he sed Well, to tell you the truth, I am not so full of fire & recklessness as I was wen I was a young man. In those days, he sed, I cud put my hand in a mad dog's mouth with a smile, our face the charge of a ragged bull without batting a eye, but my advanced years have sobered me down a bit & made me think of other & grater things than fiteing.

Well, sed the yung man, Mister Denton, it is this way with me, he sed to Pa. I do not imagine that I shall grow less fearless with the added years. In fact, I beleeve that when I am a old man I will be even more dauntless than I am now. A wen the grim reaper calls he will find me in the hoor of both as I ever was in life, unafraid.

That is a fine way to be, said Pa. You will find, sed Pa, wen you go to the front, many things in actual war-fare to try your curraige sorely. In the dark days of the Rebellion, Pa sed, there was that I dred to much to any grate extent seven now, I went thru hardships & faced dangers that wud have killed any ordinary man or make him crazy. I wonder now & then, sed Pa, that that terrifick war didnt make me realy insane. Dosnt you wiley?

Oh, I suppose so, sed Ma. Sumtimes I think you are a litel dippy at that.

MA GIVES HIM AWAY

The yung man grinned in the face, but he kept on talking. My boy, he sed to Mister Denton, wen you have gone thru a baptism of fire such as me & my brave comrades went thru at Misshunary Ridge or in the battel of the Wilderness, or at Shiloh, of Chancellorville, Pa sed, you will show then how realy brave you are. One night I was surrounded by a whole company of rebel cavalry, Pa sed, I never lost my coolness nor nerve. Taking advantage of a gray mist that hung over a gray landscape, I mingled freely with the gray-clad troops & thus made my escape.

I suppose yurs face was gray with fear, sed Ma.

Mister Denton beleeved Pa until Ma sed: I kinen, Galbraith, this door has a kind of mine was never in a war except with me.

The Bashful Boy

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"WHAT I would like to ask," writes Rebecca, "is why it is better for a girl to associate with a bashful boy. On several occasions I have noticed that you state that a young man cannot be such a young man, but you have never stated why."

The qualities in a bashful boy which make him a welcome suitor are more of a negative nature than of a positive. It is not that which he does, so much as that which he does not do. His sins are of omission and they are small compared with the sins of commission of his bolder brother.

The bashful boy doesn't flirt. With a tongue that halts and stammers, and a tell-tale color that is quicker than the blush of a young girl to proclaim his dishonesty did he attempt to be dishonest, he is not an adept at hypocrisy or concealment.

He is not a dandy. Neither is he a lady's man, and, my dear Rebecca, the presidents of banks and railroads, the powers in commercial life, the most profound thinkers and the men of letters the world honors, were never ladies' men.

He does not know what to do with his hands when out in society, but his employer will tell you he knows good use for them when at work.

If a bashful boy loves a girl it is with a sense of humility and his own unworthiness. He knows that he is the one who will be honored if all love is returned; his bolder brother has a faint suspicion which the homage of silly girls confirms, that is in the girl who should be on her knees.

During his calf days he does all his sighing for love's sake at a distance, which mothers will agree is the only safe and sane way for young girls to be loved.

He is the good listener—no woman was ever bored to death by the talking of a bashful man.

Saying little, he says little for which he or others have cause for regret. He is a safe depository for secrets; a good man in whom to have confidence. If he is not a girl's lover the next best thing that could happen her would be to have him for a brother or a friend.

His compliments are not practiced, and are therefore sincere. When it takes effort and stupendous courage to find a modest little flower to a girl, it follows that he will never throw bouquets at the head of every passer-by.

Best of all, Rebecca, the bashful boy is a home boy. He is unafraid when with his mother and finds in her companionship the delight less bashful boys seek from home.

He is "a good boy" in the sweet old-fashioned sense, a boy who has escaped contamination a few years later than it comes to boys more bold.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription, othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove those homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any of the Riker-Jaynes drug stores and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon note that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful, clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

CARMEN AND COMPANY TALK ON 9-IN-11 BILL

Both the Boston Elevated Railroad Company and its employes today issued statements on the 9-hour-in-eleven bill, which will be debated in the Senate tomorrow.

The statement from President William A. Bancroft of the Elevated says:

The Boston Elevated Railroad Company believes the bill is still mandatory as regards the company. This would compel all the work of the road to be done within a period of eleven hours.

If the statute is mandatory, the employes do not want it, nor can the company afford to operate under it. If it is permissive, it is unconstitutional. The bill as reported by the committee provides for the situation in a logical way, and takes care of grievances. The House amendments change it.

Attorney James H. Vahey and Fred Fay, for the Carmen's Union, say:

An attempt has been made to deceive the members of the Legislature into a belief that the railway companies were trying to compel the companies to establish a minimum as well as a maximum day by legislation. This is not the truth. We want the companies to be compelled to establish as many nine-in-eleven hour days as possible, and we know that a large percentage of runs can be so arranged.

The Boston Carmen's Union, when it entered into its agreement at the settlement of the strike last year, did not then intend to sign away their rights, to go to the State House as American citizens and ask the Legislature to shorten their hours of labor. In the proposed agreement which it is now attempting to make with the Boston Elevated Railway Company they do not intend to surrender any of their rights.

Postal Savings Here Show Gain

Postmaster Mansfield announces that the postal savings business at the Boston Post Office for May showed a fine new accounts, with deposits for the months amounting to $112,228, and payments of $77,082. Since the inauguration of the postal savings system, August 1, 1911, 22,855 accounts have been opened, with deposits of $1,717,509. STOCK MARKET AND FINANCIAL NEWS

Stocks were weak at the opening of markets this morning and the sagging tendency continued. Coppers ranged lower in Boston. Isle Royale declining 1%, Indiana and Calumet & Arizona a point each and Chino, North Butte, East Butte, Superior, Copper Range and Shannon being among those to show fractional losses.

In New York at the end of the first hour Reading was off 3%, American Can 2%, St. Paul 2%, Louisville & Nashville 2, Union Pacific 2, Steel 1%, Northern Pacific 1%, Missouri Pacific 1%, Erie 1%, Amalgamated 1% and Canadian Pacific 2%.

Early Slump in New York.

Prices slumped in New York in early trading, stocks being pressed for sale from many local sources as well as from European centres and could only be sold at big concessions. There was no outside buying in spite of recent declines and opinions to the effect that prices are below values in the case of leading issues.

Foreign selling was again the determining factor on this side when the New York market opened. The London market itself was weak. Many brokers attended the Paris meeting because a lack of confidence on the part of those who were on hand for business. This was in a measure due to recent failures. The one reported yesterday was of more consequence than had been expected. Commitments total about $750,000, but the net liabilities have yet to be estimated.

Many selling orders were cabled to New York from Paris, and they were said to be due to the St. Louis and San Francisco smash, a Frisco bond issue having been placed in Paris just before the road went into the hands of receivers.

Union Pacific was one of the weakest stocks, declining 1% to 143%. Steel common was supplied in bulk, selling down to 60 for a loss of 1%. Reading lost 1% in the first half hour, going to 156%. Great Northern preferred went to 122½ for a loss of 1%. Among the other declines were Amalgamated, 1%; American Smelting, 1; American Tel. & Tel., ¾; Southern Pacific, ¾; Pennsylvania, ⅝; Missouri Pacific, ¾; Erie, 1; Canadian Pacific, ⅝. Pennsylvania and Northern Pacific and Canadian Pacific around 216½.

The Curb was weak.

Americans in London were hammered.

"Katy's" Good Showing.

"That values and prices are parting company," say Thompson, Towle & Co., "can be illustrated by the fact that almost simultaneously with an outbreak of liquidation in Missouri, Kansas & Texas preferred and common shares, the road issued a statement of earnings for ten months of the current fiscal year which was better than the previous corresponding period in its history, and reports on the condition of the crops in territory served point to a still further increase in the largest yield ever harvested in that section of the country.

"Missouri, Kansas & Texas preferred pays 4 per cent. dividend annually and is now selling around 57. Earnings sold on the purchase price is over 7 per cent. In ten months of the current fiscal year gross earnings amounted to $25,580,643, an increase of $3,583,100, or nearly 15 per cent. Net earnings, after expenses and taxes in the ten months amounted to $7,412,600, an increase of more than 47 per cent. In the ten months the road not only earned its 4 per cent. preferred dividend, but had a balance remaining equivalent to nearly 3¾ per cent on the common stock.

"April earnings contributed $324,000 to the increase in gross and $11,830 to the increase in net. Prospects are that further increases will be shown in the two months of the fiscal year yet to be heard from, and that the next annual report will show a balance available for common dividends equivalent to something like 4½ per cent, on the $65,000,000 common stock outstanding after deducting the 4 per cent. annual preferred dividend."

'Frisco Road Fight Begun.

The great battle between financiers which was precipitated by the receivership applied for the St. Louis & San Francisco road began yesterday in New York, when Spencer & Co. conferred with their lawyers. R. F. Yoakum visited them, and this gave rise to reports of a compromise. These are not credited.

The St. Louis & San Francisco refund bonds and its two principal bond issues declined sharply on the market yesterday. A subsidiary bond got out at 95 but fallen below 90 to-day.

Security holders demand disclosure of what happened to the property after the receivers, who are friendly to the Yoakum management. The bankers have distributed to their clients approximately $50,000,000 of St. Louis & San Francisco general lien 5 per cent. bonds and want an additional receiver appointed in order to protect buyers of the securities.

Yoakum interests, it is understood, are opposed to having either President Winchell or Director West, the present receivers, replaced by a Speyer nominee, but are not opposed to the appointment of a third man by the court.

As a result of the highest prices recorded for St. Louis & San Francisco stocks and the general lien and refunding bonds shows that within the last two years there has been a depreciation in their quoted market value of nearly $30,000,000.

The total is compiled from the following figures:

	High.	Low.	Depreciation.
Gen'l lien 5s due 1927	91¾	61¾	$29,156,000
Refunding 4s	88½	60	2,916,000
Second pref.	90¾	64	11,440,000
Common	36¾	14	11,440,000
Total			$59,952,000

This depreciation does not take into consideration the severe decline in some of the securities of underlying properties. The $14,000,000 of New Orleans, Texas & Mexico division first mortgage bonds, of which the greater portion were left on the hands of the underwriters, were brought out around 90 and they are now quoted at 45 bid.

H. L. Winchell, president of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad and of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad, has resigned both offices, the latter resignation exclusively to his duties as receiver for the Frisco road.

Collapse in Londn.

W. R. Lawson, London financial correspondent for Hearst newspapers, cabled yesterday: "The long dreaded collapse has come at last. It is now hoped that the next two days have seen the worst of it.

"Liquidation is thought to have disclosed the chief centres of danger.

"One very big failure which has long over the American markets for weeks is said to be closed. Other accounts in Berlin, Paris and Canada are causing anxiety, but are not considered critical.

"Our stock exchange is hoeing up well under heavy pressure from realizing sellers. It has been affected more by the break in Canadian Pacific than by any other event."

London Copper Quotations.

There was an easy tone to the London copper warrants market at the opening, both spot and futures being 5s. lower.

A special dispatch from London says that exploration at the Wolverine mine on the Deseoh lode has been suspended, its results were not satisfactory.

Financial News in Brief.

Gross earnings of the New York, Ontario & Western increased $370,122 in April and the gain in net was $276,306, while surplus increased $233,450. For the ten months gross increased $578,285 and net $548,704.

The operating revenue of the Rutland road increased $6,651 in May and the decrease in operating income was $38,191. When the president of a New York bank was asked what is the matter with the stock market he said: "Nothing but the general malaise, which prevents all but the most sagacious investors from buying. You know the general run of investors always hold off until the market is rising and has risen. So long as it is unsettled or weak they fancy that it may go lower still. Their timidity leaves the market to be depressed by liquidation from abroad and assaults of the bear raiders at home."

Chesapeake & Ohio has ordered 2,000 steel hopper rail cars.

On Tuesday part of the unfilled tonnage report of the United States Steel Corporation for May is due, and it is expected that it will indicate the decrease of about 500,000 tons.

The prices of most of the wire and wire nail products in common use has been reduced $1 a ton by leading manufacturers.

It is announced at Washington that the Wilson currency bill will not be brought forward before June 23.

Warns B. U. Against Red Flag of Anarchy

Undesirable Immigrants Imperil Nation, Says Dr. Fletcher.

"The high cost of living would soon cease if men would work ten hours a day and keep away from the saloon," asserted Dr. Austin B. Fletcher of New York today at the Commencement exercises of Boston University in Tremont Temple.

"We want to get rid of socialism in this country. What is it leading to but revolution and anarchy? Into this country are coming every year a lot of undesirable immigrants. They would trample upon the Stars and Stripes and put over it the red flag of anarchy."

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND, DAILY AND SUNDAY

Three New Battleships a Patriotic Duty

As a direct result of the refusal by Congress to appropriate for more than one Dreadnaught at either of the last two sessions, the United States has declined in naval power from second place to a PRECARIOUS FOURTH.

Were that national policy known as the Monroe Doctrine to be challenged by any one of several foreign nations, in whose way to territorial aggrandizement it stands, its attempted enforcement could at this time result only in national humiliation.

With the added responsibilities thrust upon this nation by the war with Spain and the taking up of a world-wide sphere of influence, which it would have been cowardly to shirk, sea power became a necessity to the United States, but this necessity is still ignored by the "PORK-BARREL" politicians.

No section of this nation can be injured without similar ill effect to the whole. In order that those who have so nobly laid down their lives for the ideals for which this nation stands shall not have died in vain it were well not to be deaf to the dictum of that great and far-seeing statesman and patriot who in his farewell to the American people advised IN TIME OF PEACE THE PREPARATION FOR WAR.

That this nation shall at all times be prepared to assert those inalienable rights of liberty and justice to all men and to all nations and be enabled to maintain a lasting and abiding peace in all its possessions the AMERICAN urges the IMMEDIATE PASSAGE OF A SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE FOR THREE DREADNAUGHTS AS A PATRIOTIC MEASURE.

This newspaper stands always for those ideals which have made this nation great, and condemns those who for selfish or narrow or ignorant reasons would render our country helpless in an hour of need.

TRUE PATRIOTISM IS NEEDED EVEN MORE IN TIME OF PEACE THAN IN TIME OF WAR.

Give the Industrial Accident Board More Power

House Bill Number 2468, entitled "To Prevent Accidents and Occupational Diseases," needs amendment.

The object sought to be accomplished by the bill is highly desirable. But it is at least doubtful if in the loose generalities of the bill there is not more harm than good. Assuming that Section 1 of the proposed law is worth while in a bill without a penalty, it is by no means certain that Section 2 would not embarrass an employe who sought compensation from his employer for injuries under certain conditions.

The Industrial Accident Board ought to have more power to investigate the conditions of employment and to prevent accidents and disease arising under conditions of employment wherever it is found to be preventable. This board ought to have more inspectors and it ought to be assisted in its work in every possible way, for it is zealously carrying on a new and important function of our government.

The work of the Industrial Accident Board is in the hands of men of ability and high public spirit. As an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, so the power to investigate the causes of industrial accidents and disease and to prevent them, is a great deal more effective than the power to compensate for these accidents after they have occurred. Legislation which will enable the good men on this board to do this important work should be immediately obtained.

The AMERICAN suggests to the committee which has the proposition in hand that it would be well to amend the bill, giving to the Industrial Accident Board the inspectors which it REALLY needs, and the powers which it REALLY needs and which it CONSTITUTIONALLY may have, and preserving to the workingmen and women the advantage they have already attained by the Workingmen's Compensation act, which may be jeopardized by Section 2 of this bill.

Let the amendments be drawn with as much certainty as possible so that those who are subject to its provisions may understand their situation. We always seek to keep this a "government of laws, not of men."

THE JOY OF STRIVING

By LILIAN LAUFERTY

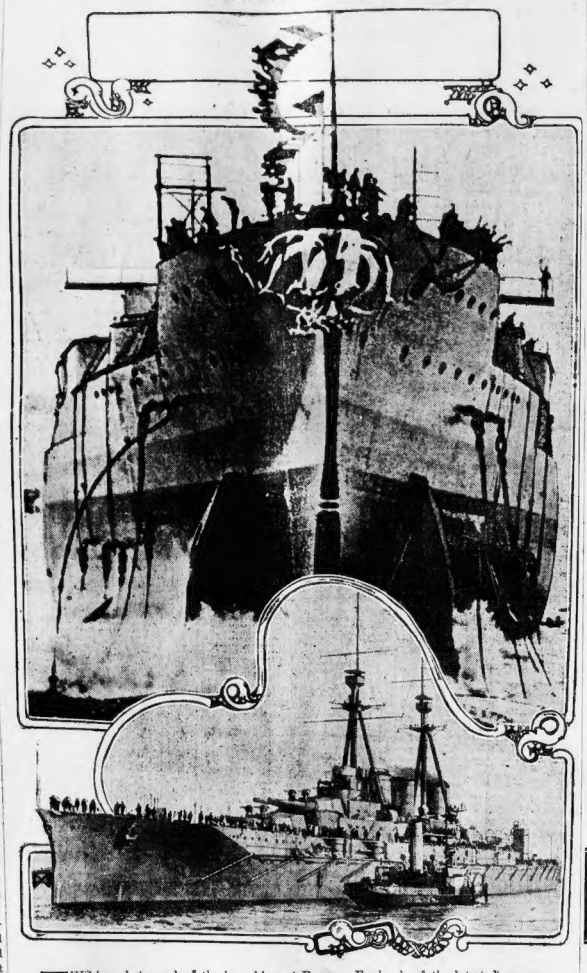
GIVE me a heart serene!
Yet, Life, not coldly so,
Lest losing thus desire to grow,
Lest losing thus the thirst to know,
The tide of life in ebb and flow
Slip by me, while complacently
I sit and say: "Life's good to me,
Why should I soil my soft white palms?
I will remain aloof and be
Proud in the sweet serenity
That asks not—and that gives not alms!"

Grant me the eager heart
That is afire to strive;
That knows the soul must still arrive,
The bitter pain may sear or shrive
With tears the laurels that arrive.
Heart! Be serene for joy or pain—
Or countless loss—or endless gain,
Scorning the idle apathy
That coldly says, "Life's good to me
And struggle is remote and far."
Nay! Every cause that wins or dies
Holds some far part in those far skies
Where sinks or rises my own star.

Japan's Preparations

First of Her EIGHT New Swift Super-Dreadnaughts

Copyright, 1913, International News Service



THIS is a photograph of the launching at Barrow, England, of the latest Japanese super-dreadnaught, Kongo, of 27,500 tons and a speed of 27 knots, which would enable her to catch or run away from any United States battleship afloat, as she pleased. Also of the Kongo as she now floats approximately ready for action. This deadly marine monster was laid down in 1911. Three others were laid down in England the same year, the Kirishima, the Haruna and the Hi-Yei. Three weeks ago Japan ordered three more battleships of the Fuso class, even bigger than the British-built vessels, laid down at home. The Fuso was laid down in 1911.

Japan, therefore, has eight new, absolutely up-to-date, overwhelmingly powerful and swift super-dreadnaughts about to take the sea. One is afloat, another soon will be, and three more could be next year. The remaining three could be the year after next.

How many more will Japan have laid down by the time these eight are afloat?

What are we doing? Only one battleship a year! Congress should immediately, at this extra session, provide for at least three.

The AMERICAN solemnly impresses upon the present Congress its national duty to support a supplementary estimate for at least three battleships superior in every possible respect to those yet projected by any nation.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

WOULD SUPPRESS SPEED MANIACS

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I am a steady reader of the Boston AMERICAN editorials, and have been reading also of this terrible slaughter of people by reckless joy-riders and speeders. I am a resident of Roslindale and have children.

I think that one way of helping eliminate this slaughter of human life would be to take these offenders (who have no regard for the lives of others, the law, or even their own lives), and after imposing fines and imprisonment to make these fiends work out the fines at hard labor. Make the fine good and strong and the labor hard. I think if a man were made to work at good hard labor he would stop to think before he let his senses slip away from him the second time.

It is not the ones who have families and little people who are dear to them who do these things. It is the men of no family, and very little sense, who think of nobody but himself and the lust for speed. Put these fellows in high-powered cars, in an enclosure by themselves and let them kill each other. There will soon be no enjoyment in that, and the people who have to go afoot will be greatly blessed.

Very truly yours,
H. W. KOLLAR.

ENCOURAGING THE JAPANESE

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—The Japanese, so recently flushed with victory over the vast Chinese and Russian empires, very naturally feel that they are invincible. The utterances of J. Ingram Bryan in Japan, backed up by the incompetent W. J. Bryan, and the Tory-like inclinations of the administration make the situation in the East very grave.

There are many reasons why it would be unwise to admit the Mongolian race to citizenship, and great care should be taken to prevent any more of them landing on our shores.

Your labors in the past for the welfare and betterment of conditions in our country are appreciated.

MAKE THE JAPS BEHAVE

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I have long admired your stand on the question of a larger navy. Nothing could more plainly demonstrate the necessity for more battleships than the present controversy between the United States and Japan.

If some of the backwoods statesmen in Washington were moved more by a spirit of patriotism and less disposed to graft on the public funds for handsome and costly postoffice buildings, in order to win votes, the country would be far better off.

Since we have assumed a position as a world power, are we to let Japan or any other nation step on our toes? Why not stop quibbling and tell the Mikado right now to cease the offensive demands or we'll send what ships we now have across the Pacific and blow his little island off the map?

There isn't an American worthy of the name who doubts for a moment we can do it, if we just make up our minds to it. Moreover, the Jap knows it, and so does every European nation.

Give Mr. Bryan an ample supply of grape juice to keep him from mixing into things, and call on the real big, fearless and patriotic men of the country to lay down the law to the Japs, or to anybody else who gets in our way, in a manner that it should be laid down to them.

We have never had to bow to a foreign power yet, and we are too old now to learn new tricks. Very truly yours,

JOHN P. SWOPE.

PRESIDENT WILSON AND LABOR

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I am a strong admirer of the AMERICAN, especially for its frankness and impartial, instructive editorials.

With particular reference to a recent editorial, one readily perceives in the appointment of Walter Page as Ambassador by President Wilson, either the payment of a political debt or the redemption of his (Wilson's) unexpressed but sincere thought—that is, an enemy of organized labor.

Rather strange and peculiar where campaign promises and pledges are converted into reverse actions, for, while I am not a member of organized labor, I am compelled to deem it, as others must also, a great and direct insult to organized labor—a greater and unpardonable insult to his labor supporters.

E. L.

It is happening continually in every large city and many smaller cities of America.

It occurs more frequently in America than elsewhere, because of the stupid and senseless confidence parents have in the discretion of their daughters, and of the utter lack of careful guardianship they exert over them.

If your daughters tell you they are asked to stay over night anywhere, my dear sir or madam, make sure that you know all about it, the people with whom they are to stay, and all about the places of amusement where they are going.

The working girls are particularly in danger, but school girls in good homes are not exempt from these dangers.

In one of the lesser American cities a certain high school was obliged to close its doors last year because of the well founded scandals which were circulated concerning the pupils.

A large percentage of these young girls had become corrupted by associating with one immoral young woman who had led them into vicious paths, unknown to the parents.

When the unsuspecting fathers and mothers were told by their offspring that they were going to attend a party at the home of one of the pupils the former made no attempt to learn the nature of the party, or to know more of the hostess than that she was a friend of their daughters.

Nor did they ask afterward for particulars of the entertainment until it was too late.

The most important duty life holds for you is to keep in touch with your children and to know all about their pleasures and all about their friends and to guide them over the dangerous paths of youth by the light of love and knowledge.

Daughter's Social Pleasures—Investigate, as It Is Unwise to Take Too Much for Granted

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Company.

DO you know all about your daughter's friends? About their social pleasures?

Your daughter may be attending school; she may be employed in an office, or in a factory, and she may tell you some morning that she will stay all night with one of her girl friends.

Do you investigate the matter and know just who this girl friend may be?

Do you take sufficient interest to find out what the entertainment was which these girls attended, and just where they went after the moving picture or the vaudeville show was over?

You say you trust your daughter.

But can you also trust every friend the daughter makes?

The very innocence of your child may lead her to place her confidence in those who are seeking her downfall.

She believes "Mollie" is as good as herself.

And she goes to stay all night with Mollie.

But Mollie has lost her standards of right living; she has become obsessed with the demons of extravagance and excitement, and she has decided that it is an old fogy idea to work day in and out, and earn only a small wage and spend her evenings in a dull flat or cheap boarding house.

Mollie has already sold herself to the people who give her more than she can earn by hard work. And she tells your daughter what liberal people they are, and what a good time they can have, if your daughter will stay with her and go over there for the evening. And when your unsuspecting child returns to you, she, too, has entered the path which is so long in turning.

This is not an imaginary tale.

True Charity

I GAVE a beggar from my little store
Of well earned gold. He spent the shining ore
And came again, and yet again, still cold
And hungry, as before.

I gave a thought, and through that thought of mine
He found himself the man, supreme, divine!
Fed, clothed, and crowned with blessings manifold.
And now he begs no more.

SISTERS ALL

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

WHEN Eve was told, and Adam, too,
To pack their raiment and skidoo,
Poor Adam said "It can't be helped,"
But this is what his sweetheart yelped:
"If woman had a vote, you bet
We'd be within the Garden yet."

When Cleopatra, wondrous girl,
Made all of Antony's senses whirl,
Charming him through the passing hours
Within her Alexandria bowers;
Brave Antony remarked: "My sweet,
I'll lay the whole world at your feet!"
From Cleopatra's lovely throat
Came, "Give us girls a chance to vote!"

When pretty little Lucy Gray,
Out in a blizzard lost her way,
She said, "It's wrong that I should roam—
If women voted, I'd be home!"

When cute Maud Muller raked the hay,
She heard the old Judge make his play.
He stopped and asked her for a drink;
She said: "Your honor, I don't think!
I hope you'll have a parching throat
Until us ladies get a vote."

THE LOBSTER

By E. TRACY SWEET

THE lobster is looked upon with much disdain
By those who are often heard talking,
Of the crustacean who doesn't seem to know,
Which end should lead off when he's walking.
But if you go out to the gay cabaret,
You'll find that the theme of this ballad,
Is not in the cheap class when he is served up
A la Newburg or hashed in a salad.
